as the bill stands, no amendments can be offered. It is at the final passage stage.

The republicans can, however, debate it as long as they can hold out, but cannot em-presumed they can debate it longer than

Senator Hill's Threat. Fortunately for the party, this tariff bill as the senate committee has amended it, must, after passing the senate, go back to the house or a conference committee of the two houses. Afterwards each house must pass separately upon the report of the conence committee. The house will never Igree to the senate making the Wilson bill protection measure. Now Senator Hill tor Hill will not be able to do either, though the fight to be made on the bill may delay its final passage for many months.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

The Seigniorage Bill Was Rushed Along Almost to the Goal.

Washington, March 7 .- Mr. Gibson, democrat, of Maryland, reported from the com-mittee on naval affairs a bill appropriating $45,000 for the purpose of reciaiming the United States ship of war Kearsarge and her equipment, provided that not more than $10,000 shall be expended if the at-tempt proves a failure. The bill was

Mr. Morgan, from the committee on for-Mr. Morgan, from the committee on for-eign relations, reported a resolution request-ing the president to inform the senate, if not inconsistent, whether the government of Great Britain had occupied Bluefields or any other place on the Mosquito reservation in Nicaragua with a military force; to state the character and strength of such force; and the claim of authority on the part of the British government so to occupy. part of the British government so to occupy that country. He supposed, he said, although he did not know, that the Kearsarge had been dispatched to Bluefields on account of that occupation. It was a very delicate and grave question for the people of the United States correctely in the will. delicate and grave question for the people of the United States, especially if the military occupation had taken place on the idea that Great Britain had reserved to herself in any treaty with Nicaragua the right to make an intervention of this kind, which in the estimate of the American government violated the spirit and purpose of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850.

The resolution was agreed Seignforage Bill Called Up. Mr. Harris called for a veto on his motion for a second reading of the seignforage bill. He stated that his object yesterday was to bridge the day over in order that he might consult with some of his friends on the democratic side of the chamber. He had had such consultation, and now, in on the democratic side of the channel, had had such consultation, and now, in had had such consultation, and now, in views of both sides, and in view of the fact that after the tariff bill should be reported, it would have to remain on the calendar for a number of days, so as to allow it to be printed and to allow every senator an opportunity to examine it carefully, he knew of no better method of occupying the intermediate time than to take up and dispose of the seignforage bill. After its second reading, he would ask unanimous consent, which, from the indications of yesterday, he was sure would be granted to terday, he was sure would be granted, to have it taken up, considered and disposed

The bill had its second reading, and then the vice president asked whether there was any objection to Mr. Harris's request to take it up for consideration. Sherman and Palmer Pull Together.

Mr. Sherman said that he would move, if no one else did, to refer the bill to the finance committee. He regarded the bill as one of the most important that had been before the senate for years. It proposed the issue of United States notes, to the amount of $55,000,000, for the current ex-penses of the government. He regarded it as a grave revolutionary proceeding.

This issue of $55,000,000 would be followed by the issue of other millions of paper mon ey without any redemption behind it for its redemption. He trusted, therefore, that the bill would be referred to the finance the bill would be referred to the finance committee. If a majority of that committee favored it, it could report the bill back, but surely such a measure ought not to be forced on the senate in an unusual and almost revolutionary course of proceeding.

It could be taken up by the committee and determined, probably in a day or two, whether it should be reported; and that was the course which ought to be taken.

Mr. Palmer, democrat, of Illinois, argued in favor of its reference to the finance committee. He regarded a revenue tariff, he said, as essential to the country; but the seigniorage bill was one that could await seigniorage bill was one that could await the settlement of that more important

p. m., when the vice president laid before the senate the unfinished business, being a bill for the purchase of a site for the government printing office.

Mr. Call moved to lay that bill aside and take up the bill to change the boundaries of the judicial districts of Florida. This motion was defeated, yeas, 22; nays, 47.

Mr. Harris then moved to proceed to the consideration of the seignlorage bill. The motion was agreed to without a division.

The bill was therefore before the senate as in committee of the whole.

Voorhees Speaks for Seigniorage. Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, said that if he supposed that the taking up of the seigniorage bill would result in any delay of the tarif bill, he would be opposed to it. The situation was, he said, this: He assumed that a report on the subject would be made within the next few hours to the full committee. The mi-nority of the committee would claim and be granted some time for examination and sideration of the features of the He hoped the bill would come committee after a brief period. It would involve, however, some days. After the tariff had been reported to the senate it would go to the calendar and necessarily remain there at least a week.

That would be requisite in order to allow senators to examine it and to prepare themselves for Ts discussion. His statement, therefore, necessarily involved a delay of ten days, after tomorrow, before its consideration could be begun in the senate. He had had, of late days, much to try his patience and his temper, but the action of the other side of the chamber on the selgniorage bill had been rather an agreeable thing to him, as there was a touch of the boomerang in it, which he rather liked. (Laughter.)

He thought that, ordinarily, a motion to refer a bill to a committee ought to pre-vail, but the seigniorage bill was a little out of the ordinary track, and he was willing to have it taken up and considered without that reference. The bill could be taken up and disposed of before the discussion of the tariff question was reached.

The discussion was interrupted briefly to allow two messages from the president of the United States to be presented, also to have the conference report on the urgent deficiency bill presented and concurred in.

Not Referred. The question was then taken on Mr. Sherman's motion to refer the seigniorage bill to the finance committee and the motion was defeated. Yeas-6, nays 50. The affirmative votes were given by Davis, re publican, Minnesota; Gallinger, republican, New Hampshire; Morrill, republican, Ver-New Hampshire; Morrill, republican, Vermont; Palmer, democrat, Illinois; Sherman, republican, Ohio, and Vilas, democrat, Wisconsin. The oill was read in full and the presiding officer, Mr. Faulkner, said the bill was in committee of the whole and open to amendment.

Then, no amendment being offered, he followed with the announcement that the question was on the engrossment and third reading of the bill, and, that stage being passed, he said that the question as "Shall the bill pass?"

Goldbugs Caught Napping. All this had been accomplished so deftly and speedily that the opponents of the bill and special control of the part of the par did not seem to realize that their opportu-

Alabamians Read the Report of Mr. Chalmers with Keen Interest.

A SUBJECT OF GREAT MOMENT THERE Handsome Compliments Are Paid to the Constitution. WHAT THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT

They Have Been Anxious to See What the Special Examiner Reported on Frauds

Birmingham, Ala., March 7 .- (Special.)-The people here are bragging on The Con stitution tonight. Its exclusive publication this morning of Examiner Chalmers's report is the talk of the town. The Alabama dailies have tried hard to get it. Their reporters have used all their artful dodges. They have printed numerous guesses at its contents, but they had to ead today's Constitution to get the facts as they are on the records.

The following are some of the comments heard en passant: Chappel Corey, secretary of the Commercial Club and ex-editor of The Age-Herald: "I expected to see the report printed in The Constitution first. They always lead the procession in matters of news.

Ben Porter, attorney at law, an ex-reporter: "That report is a big item of news in Alabama. I congratulate The Constitution on its success.'

Colonel Sumter Lea, attorney at law, to a friend: "You may depend on The Constitution to print the news every time. If I don't see an item in The Constitution I know it is a fake." Will Miller, manager Smith & Mont-gomery's news department: "The Constitution today sold like hot cakes. It does every day for that matter. I had rather read it than any paper we get, and the public is of the same opinion. He Depends on The Constitution. Reavis J. Terry, real estate agent: "The publication of Examiner Chalmers's report was a great scoop for The Constitution. But it is given to that sort of practice. I spent last winter way up in Wisconsin and depended on The Constitution for news from Alabama and Birmingham. I depend on it when I'm at home for that matter and it never disappoints me." John D. Miller, foreman of the grand jury which indicted the federal officers last fall: "I am grateful to The Constitution for publishing the Chalmers report. It coptains information that the public should know The Constitution is the foremost paper in the south anyhow. Send me the daily for a year."

Just as He Expected. Morris Loveman, attorney at law: "I thought The Constitution would get hold of the Chalmers report. It is the biggest piece of Alabama news that has developed this year. The Constitution folks don't let such things go by. When I first came here from Dalton I read The Constitution to get Georgia news. I read it now the Alabama news."

Captain John C. Henley: "I am glad The Constitution has satisfied the public demand for the Chalmers report. It is in the habit, though, of printing what the people want to read."

J. W. Sutphin, night chief Western Union "The Chalmers report makes very spicy reading and The Constitution scooped the world on it, I understand. The Constitution is always in the front rank, however,"

This is the way the people talk. The city is applauding The Constitution's enterprise.

A Great Service.

The universal opinion here is that The Constitution has done the public a great service in printing the report in full. The people have a right to know these things they say. Such practices as those noted in the report have been prevalent with the minor federal officers of this district for years, it is believed. While the people have complained, it is only recently that their complaints have been considered. The examiner's suggestions that commissioners be put on salaries and that none but competent attorneys be eligible to the office meets with unanimous sanction here.

SENSATION AT THE CAPITAL. Everybody Is Talking About The Con-

stitution's Scoop. Montgomery, Ala., March 7.—(Special.)— The report made by Mr. Chalmers on the The report made by Mr. Chalmers on the frauds in Alabama was read in The Constitution here with the deepest interest. Everybody is talking about The Constitution's scoop. The business and professional men have a good deal to say about the local papers getting left on the publication. Friends of some of the commissioners say that the officials will be able to make a defense when the proper time comes.

defense when the proper time comes.

But the report has certainly created a great sensation. The Constitution has been in great demand. Everybody who takes an interest in politics has read the story. The compliments paid The Constitution are couched in the strongest terms.

IN THE HOUSE. Pensions Occupied the Attention of the Representatives All Day.

Washington, March 7.—(Special.)—In the house, Mr. O'Neil, of Massachusetts, reported to the house today with a favoraole recommendation from the committee on appropriations. Mr. Bingham's resolution asking the secretary of the treasury to inform the house under what authority the bureau of engraving and printing submitted a bid for printing postage stamps. The resolution was passed. Mr. Henderson, of North Carolina, reported from the committee on postoffices and postroads, Mr. Bingham's resolution asking the postmaster general to give the louse all the information in his department respecting the bids for printing postage stamps and the award of the contract and this was also passed.

At the beginning of the discussion of the pension bill Mr. Waugh, of Illinois, stated that Deputy Commissioner Bell had written him a letter denying the truthfulness of the interview printed in The Indianapo-lis Sentinel and quoted by him, Waugh, in his speech, in which Mr. Bell was made to say that the expenditures for pensions in the year 1894 would be $25,000,000 less than for the current year, and that before the Cleveland administration closed, the annual expenditures or account of the pensions would be reduced $100,000,000 a year.

Mr. Hudson, populist, of Kansas, said the publican party would fire the northern heart with appeals on this pension question. Referring to the statements that the southern real reason why the house indulged in this annual debate was that the old soldier had vote. The pension question, he said, should be taken out of politics.

Ben Russell Defends the Secretary.

Mr. Russell, of Georgia, said he had received notice that the colored brother was to be relegated to the rear and that the restates did not pay anything for pensions, Mr. Russell said the states should take the pension matter into their own hands. The answer the country made to the charges made against President Cleveland's pension veto was to give him the largest majority in 1892 ever given to any candidate for the presidency in the history of the country. All that the democratic party desired, he said, was that the pension laws be equitably administered. In the further course of his remarks Mr. Russell was interrupted by . Wilson, republican, of Ohio, who asked whether or not Secretary Smith's father served in the confederate army.

"I believe not," said Mr. Russell.

A Sympathizer but Non-Combatant. "Well, did he have any relatives in the army?" asked Mr. Wilson.

"He had one relative, answered Mr. Rus sell, "whose name stands as high, probably, as that of any other man, who gave his en-ergy and his fortune to the confederacy-General Mike Hoke, of North Carolina, whose illustrious name the secretary bears." Mr. Wilson-Was the secretary in sympathy with the confederacy?

Mr. Russell—Well, the secretary was seven years old at the time the war proke out and in common with every seven-year-old child in the south, his entire sympathy was with the confederacy." Mr. Springer's Charge.

Mr. Springer charged that the pension bureau had been used by the republican party to affect the vote in Ohio and Indiana, which were doubtful states, political Illinois averaged neither so many pensioners, nor so much pay per pensione per district, as did both the states named. Mr. O'Neil, of Massachusetts, who is in charge of the bill, closed the general de He reviewed the various speeches by republican members and replied to their several criticisms of and charges against the bureau. The cause of the great sudden decrease of the issue of pension certificates, he said, was a decision made by Assistan Secretary of Interior Bussey in the late ad-ministration which reduced the allowance of a certain class of certificates 5 per cent On the question of value of allowances made by the bureau Mr. O'Neil said that the average monthly payment of certificates issued in the last year of Raum's ad-ministration was $9.91, while of those issued in the first ten months of Lochren's administration it was $10.08.

The close of Mr. O'Neil's speech was ar eloquent eulogy upon the character and services of General Black, the ex-commissioner; Commissioner Lochren, Secretary Smith and President Cleveland, a presenta-uon of the bill as a generous expression of the democratic party on the subject of pen-

The bill then came up for consideration under the five-minute rule, and for amendment. Three amendments were ruled out on points of order. The fourth gave rise to debate. It was offered by Mr. Grosvenor, republican, of Offic, to increase the amount of the Menderson Enlivens the Scene.

Mr. Henderson, republican, of Iowa, caused something of a sensation by referring to the speech of Mr. Black, of Illinois. He said that gentleman had stood up here with a bouquet of rhetoric in one hand, to attract the votes of the soldiers, while in his other, his withered one, he held a dagger to drive at their hearts. What a contrast he bore, said Mr. Henderson, to that other distinguished veteran, General Sickles, of New York, who spoke for the old soldiers, and who, he doubted not, stood discredited with the democratic party for that speech.

Enlow Retorts. Henderson Enlivens the Scene.

Enloe Retorts.

Mr. Enloe, to whom Mr. Henderson had referred in his remarks, said the gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Black, had been successful in drawing the fire of all the gentlemen from Illinois, Mr. Black, had been successful in drawing the fire of all the gentlemen on the other side who had not yet done rendering military service to the country. And, last of all, he had been charged with using a dagger. If he had used any such weapon it was the dagger of truth. Against that dagger had been raised on the other side the shield—he would not say of untruthfulness—but of assertion, and it was painted red with slander. The gentleman from Iowa had, as usual, brought a firebrand into the debate. The brand had evidently been lighted at the funeral pyre of truth, for he brought nothing of truth into the discussion. Evidence had been produced to prove the allegation of fraud respecting the pension roll; and Mr. Enloe said he could show no man anything who would not see—who shut his eyes and kept them closed, but he had shown the house the proof of fraud from the records of the bureau itself.

An amendment making the representatives of local examining boards open to claimants and their attorneys offered by Mr. Pickler, was adopted. Enloe Retorts.

Mr. Grow offered an amendment making the lowest monthly pension rate for disability $12. If the government was to do anything for the old soldler, he said, it should do something substantial. Dollars and cents should not be weighed in the national scales against the heroic deeds and services of the defenders of their country. The magnitude of the struggle of 1861-85 and the magnanimity of the victors to the vanguished were the subjects of an elequent

The amendment was shut out on a point of order, as it changed an existing law.

Between the British Forces and the Africars.

London, March 7.—The admiralty office is in receipt of a dispatch from Bathurst, Gambia, this morning reporting another engagement between British troops—detachment of the West India regiment—and a strong band of followers of Chief Fodisilah. Rear Admiral Bedford, of the flagship Raleigh, reports that the West Indians were attacked by natives while advancing upon the village of Bamjur, yesterday, a fight ensuing, in which seven of the British soldiers were wounded. The West Indians opened a deadly fire upon the natives, causing them to retreat. The advantage was followed up until the British took possession of Bamjur, which they burned. The loss to the natives in killed and wounded is very heavy.

MR. WHITE RESIGNS.

He Finally Gives Up the Senatorship for the Bench.

NEWTON BLANCHARD SUCCEEDS HIM Governor Foster Fills the Vacancy Without Any Delay.

WHITE WAS OPPOSED TO BLANCHARD

The Latter Is an Anti-Administration Man and a Strong Friend of Silver-The Unexpired Term Is Short.

New Orleans, La., March 7 .- (Special.)-Governor Foster received today the resignation of Hon. E. D. White, as United States senator from Louisiana, to take effect Monday, March 12th. The governor at once accepted the resignation and appointed Hon. Newton C. Blanchard, representative from the fourth district, as senator.

There has been a great deal of fencing over the senatorship for the past few weeks, since Mr. Cleveland appointed Senator White an associate justice of the United States supreme court. Mr. White showed a great unwillingness to resign his senatorship until he could get assurance that his successor would be a man who would support the cause of a sugar duty. Mr. Blanchard seemed particularly objectionable to him personally, as the representative voted for the Wilson bill in the house and differed with him on the silver question. Mr. Blanchard was also an anti-administration man, whereas Mr. White is a strong supporter of President Cleveland.

White Was Reluctant to Resign. Mr. Blanchard, who came from Washing ton to plead his own cause, squared himself on the sugar question, declaring that he would fight as earnestly in the interest of sugar as Mr. White himself had done, and that as senator he would vote against the Wilson bill unless it provided for sugar, although he had voted for it in the house of representatives. In spite of this pledge White withheld his resignation to the last moment and seemed most unwilling to give way to a silver and anti-Cleveland senator, and it is rumored resigned only after consultation with the president. The appointment of Mr. Blanchard is for less than two months, as the Louisiana legislature meets in May, when it will elect two senators, Caffery and Blanchard being both appointees of the governor. They are both candidates for election to the senate.

Newton Crain Blanchard was born in Rapides Parish, La., where he still owns property, and where many of his relatives reside. He first saw the light of day on June 19, 1849, and he is now, therefore, forty-five years of age. Before he was fortyfour Mr. Blanchard had been elected seven times to congress, a destinction enjoyed by few of the members of the national assembly.

SURPRISE IN HOUSTON.

Mrs. Banks Is a Well-Known Figure in a Social Way. Houston. Tex., March 7.—(Special.)—Yesterday a telegram from Atlanta announced Eugene E. Killinger and Mrs. Magnolia Banks, of Houston. Considerable comment was naturally excited, as even the most intimate friends of the contracting parties knew nothing of their matrimonial intentions. In fact, Mrs. Banks recently departed without informing any one of her destination.

The bridegroom came to Houston from Fort Worth and clerked at the Hutchins house for Hodges, whose absence is mourned by many. The bride, Mrs. Banks, is the widow of a gallant confederate soldier and stood well socially in the community. Her daughter, Mary Muse Banks, was nominated by Dick Dowling Camp, of this city, and elected by the State Association of United Confederate Veterans to represent Texas at the confederate reunion at Birmingham. She was selected to take part in the tableaux in which young ladies were to represent the different states. Before the sudden departure of Hodges, Killinger was a frequent caller on Mrs. Banks, visiting her from three to five times weekly. He was twitted about his devotion to the widow but none entertained the slightest idea that improper relations existed between them, and the telegrams from Atlanta caused gen-uine surprise and at the same time morti-fication to old confederates.

Boynton, announcing the postponement of the dedication of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military park from September, 1894, to September, 1895. The reasons given for postponement are that the tariff question occupying the attention of congress would prevent final action on the bill, appropriating funds for the dedication in time for this year and that the Grand Army of the Re public would probably meet in Atlanta. Heath, the well-known Washington correspondent, in connection with his brother, Fletcher Heath, of Hamilton, O. was negotiating for a controlling interest. brother, Fletcher Heath, of Hamilton, O. was negotiating for a controlling interest in the paper. A special from Washington, received last night at The Tribune office, gave the result of an interview with Mr. Heath in which that gentleman said that he and his brother, backed by New York capitalists, had bought The Commercial Gazette, but declined to give the figures. It it rumored that there will be a complete elimination of Halstead influences. Moorhead, president of The Commercial Gazette and the largest single owner, as in New York. The price is understood to be about $450,000.

Referring to the rumors about Perry and Fletcher Heath securing a controlling interest in that paper, The Commercial Gazette will tomorrow publish a denial. President Moorhead telegraphs from New York that he still holds his stock.

Murat Halstead had his stock up as cola United States naval vessel be sent there at once.

There is no explanation in the minister's dispatch or reason for the landing of the British forces. Preceding reports of Consul Braida show that when the Nicaraguan government forces occupied Bluefield, the reigning Musquito chief appealed to the British consul at San Juan Del Norte for protection, and a question of interest at this stage of affairs is whether the British troops have been landed to afford that protection to the Mosquitos, or whether the landing was made to protect British citizens only.

CRAZED IN THE PULPIT.

A Woman Creates a Sensation Talking to Empty Pews.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 7.-(Special.)-An unusual spectacle was witnessed about noon in the cathedral of Saints Peter and Paul. Father Walsh, The Catholic priest who was at his home adjoining the magnificent edifice, was alarmed by the shrill cries of a woman. The police were notified, and on entering the church, saw woman in the pulpit wildly gesticulating and exhorting imaginary sinners to repentance. She had no auditors and was talking to the empty pews. A curious crowd gathered in the doors, fearing to enter, and awed by the woman's violent earnestness. She became frenzied with rage when the officers tried to persuade her to leave the holy place, and it required the efforts of two policemen to overpower her. After a severe struggle she was landed in the patrol wagon and taken to the police station. It was then learned that her name was Nellie Ginnevan. She was later taken in charge by relatives. At the station she stood with glazed eyes counting her beads. STILL ARRESTING RIOTERS.

A Gattling Gun Keeps the Strikers from Doing Violence.

Charleston, W. Va., March 7.—All is quiet at the seat of war this morning. Arrests of rioters are being made hourly. The Fayette jail is full and it is though that the surplus will be brought here. But one Gatling gun was taken up yesterday, but that was sufficient, as the miners were awed by it and call it "the gun that shoots 12,000 times a minute." Nearly all of the ringleaders of the riot have been arrested. Their names were turnished the authorities by a Pinkerton detective who, disguised as a miner, learned all the secrets and names iner, learned all the secrets and miner, learned all the secrets and manes of the strikers and gave them to the sheriff.

The boy Jackson, who revealed the dynamite plot, is now at Fayette under ample protection. It is not thought advisable to remove the Troops until after the trial of the ringleaders, which is pr rapidly as possible. Wyant and the two men who were arrested with him, have re-turned to Eagle under bonds. The coroturned to Eagle under bonds. The coro-ner's ipquest begun near a week ago has not yet been finished.

San Francisco, March 7.—(Copyright 1894 by the United Press.)—The schooner Transit arrived from Honolulu at ... o'clock this morning bringing advices up to February 20th. Advices sent by the Oceanic on the 15th instant, reported important action having been taken by the provisional government in the matter of preparing for a constitutional convention to organize a representation of the provisional government in the matter of preparing for a constitutional convention to organize a representation to organize a representation of the provisional government in the matter of preparing for a constitutional convention to organize a representation. stitutional convention to organize a repre tative government. This was followed the 17th, after an evening meeting of tative government. This was followed on the 17th, after an evening meeting of the Annexation Club, by action on the part of the leading members of the club, as citlzens, in organizing formally as a political party in support of the government. Resoutions were passed deprecating the divis-on of the annexationists into leagues or annexationists into leagues of clubs and advising the whole body, as loyal annexationists, to form one broad party.

A preliminary committee of thirteen was appointed to take charge of the formation of the new party. The committee met on the 18th and organized plans for the appoint-ment of national, district and island com-

Their work was continued on the 19th. Their movement embraced all classes and divisions hitherto arising among the supporters of the provisional government. It is fully expected to supersede and displace all separate political action in the American league or German and Portuguese organizations. This party organization is independent of annexation clubs. While the aforesaid leagues have served to stimulate political activity, the new party organization is expected to absorb their political functions in the future. A platform of in the future. The dispatch of February 14th gives a history of events in the islands as already covered by press dispatches via San Francisco, and states that while the past month has been an unusually quiet one, the ac-tion of congress is awaited with great interest as indicating the future policy of the United States towards this country. The recently determined upon increase in the number of increbers of the advisory council from fourteen to twenty, new members to be selected by the suffrages of loyal citinner hereafter to be provided, is referred to without comment, except such as is contained in numerous newspaper clippings enclosed by Mr. Willis. He refers soldiers were "affected in a peculiar way, which gave rise to a rumor of poisoning," but adds that "there seems to have been little cause for such suspicion." He also speaks of a rumored Chinese uprising, which also, in his opinion, was "utterly without foundation," being based upon a public meeting called by the Chinese to protest against certain legislative changes affecting their rights. Mr. Willis says spirited contest in progress le to the introduction of the representative

He says the mass meeting of the Chinese, held the previous night, was very largely attended, about 3,000 persons being present and vigorous resolutions were passed. He encloses press clippings of the proceedings, which mention that the tenor of the meeting was such that the use of a man-of-war was more than hinted at.

Statements were made that the Chinese paid more taxes than any other class, and that but for them, Honolulu trade would die. The resolutions adopted set forth that there is an act pending before the legislature of the provisional government, obliging Chinese residents to obtain a special license as a prerequisite to conducting business in this country. IN THE SENATE.

Continued From Second Column First Page adjourn was taken by yeas and nays. It was defeated—yeas 12, nays 50.

The senators voting for adjournment were: Aldrich, Allison, Frye, Gallinger, Hale, Hawley, Hoar, Morrill, Palmer, Platt, Quay and Sherman.

Mr. Morrill protested against such an im portant bill being passed in what looked like a freak of the senate. There had been no consideration as to what the effect of its passage would be on the credit of the country, both at home and abroad. It was but recently that $50,000,000 of bonds had been sold in order to reinforce the treasury with gold, and to put gold and silver coin and United States notes on a parity. It was well understood that no further bonds could be issued with the hope of finding a market. The $50,000,000, as he understood, nad originally been set apart in order to support the par value of silver certificates, and now it was proposed to issue paper currency for it, without a dollar more of gold, to redeem and with the standard silver dollar worth only 45 cents. If there were any senators on either side of the chamber who wanted to put the government of the United States in that position, he, Morrill, was not one of them.

Too Late for Amendments Mr. Palmer inquired whether the bill was still subject to amendment and was inform ed by the presiding omcer, that it was not Mr. Allison-Has the bill passed to a third

The Presiding Officer-Yes, and the ques tion now before the senate is on the pas-sage of the bill Mr. Allison—Then, I move to reconsider the vote whereby the bill was engrossed and read a third time.

Mr. Cockrell, democrat, of Missouri-On that motion, I ask the yeas and nays.

Mr. Sherman made a final appeal to the senate against hasty action. The course adopted with this bill was, he said, in vio-lation of the old established rules of the senate. Never since the body was organizsenate. Never since the body was organized nad such an important order been rushed pell mell through it. The senate had refused to refer it, and now it was to be passed with scarcely any debate.

That seemed extraordinary. He begged the senate—the greatest deliberative body in the world—to pause before hurrying to its passage a bill which, in his judgment contained within it things as indefensible as he had ever known m a bill. He intimated that he would like more time to present his objections to it. No senator, he said, had dreamed that the bill was to pass today.

"No matter," said Senator Harris, "what people may have dreamed or not dreamed, if the senator desires further time, he shall have it."

Mr. Allison said that he had in his mind two amendments which he thought were necessary and he hoped in some way the bill might not be placed beyond the power of

'That has already been done," said Mr.

Voorhees.

'I hope the third reading will be reconsidered," Mr. Allison pleaded.

'I prefer being frank to being agreeable," said Mr. Harris, "and I shall not consent to its going back to the amendment stage."

After some further colloquy the bill was allowed to go over till tomorrow, principally for the accommodation of Mr. Sherman, but with no indication that there would be, tomorrow, andy amendment or yielding of the parliamentary advantage which it occupies.

After action on Mr. Allison's motion to reconsider, the next vote is to be on the passage of the bill.

After a short executive session, the senate at 3:20 o'clock adjourned until tomorrow.

The State Bank Bill. The State Bank Bill.

While all interest is now in the senate, and will be for two weeks, the house is considering appropriation bills. At the end of that time the house will share the attention of the country. After appropriation bills the banking and currency committee is to have the right of way. The bill relieving clearing house certificates, issued during the panic, from taxation is to be called up. And the bill repealing the 10 per cent tax on the issue of state banks is to be offered as an amendment to it. This has been agreed upon.

has been agreed upon.

Of course the fight over this measure is to be a hot one. The division on it is on the line of the division on silver, except all the republicans and the populists are against the state bank bill. The republicans as a party are against it. The populists are against it because its passage would rob them of their stock in trade. There would be plenty of money in the country with this bill a law. With plenty of money the populists could no longer keep up their howling.

The southern and western democrats are been agreed upon.

The southern and western democrats are unanimous for it. The eastern democrats as a rule are against it. The cuckoos as a whole are against it. Still the bill is a whole are against it. Still the bill is gaining in strength among the eastern democrats and its leading advocates hope to draw party lines so close on it that it will go through. Indeed right now its chances of passage are growing more rosy every day.

Joseph Chamberlain Speaks in High Terms of Mr. Gladstone.

ADVISES THE LIBERAL UNIONISTS.

There Is No Good Reason, He Suggests, for Thinking That Lord Roseberry Will Change the Policy.

London, March 7 .- Joseph Cnamberlain, in London, March 7.—Joseph Cnamberlain, in the house of commons, addressed a meeting of his constituents in Birmingham last evening. He praised Mr. Gladstone for his energy and courtesy in public life and spoke in the warmest terms of his eloquence and keenness in debate. None of the old premier's mental powers, he said, had shown signs of decay, and his retirément could only be deplored by political friends and foes alike. For this retirement there was no more reason now apparent than years. Mr. Chamberlain said he had been asked repeatedly in the last few days whether the liberal unionists were likely whether the liberal unionists were interly to become again a part of the great liberal party. This he was unable to answer. He had noticed a wide-spread impression that Lord Roseberry, as premier, was likely to reverse Mr. Gladstone's policy. notably as regarded home rule for Ireland. It certainly was curious that the liberal party, after its great struggle for home rule, should now accept a leader who was known to be lukewarm in the Irish cause, and reject one who was recognized as a zealot for separation. There were many incolouished elements in the present political contents in the presen realot for separation. There were many incalculable elements in the present political situation. The uncertainty could not be fathomed for some time and the parties must wait and watch. The liberal unionists must observe the course of events without disbanding their forces. Personally he feared that the policy of the liberal party would remain unchanged that home rule would remain unchanged, that home rul would still be part of the liberal programme and that consequently he and his col-leagues must continue their strenuous op-position to the government.

THE BATTLE AT TROY.

Shea Is in Jail, but Several of the Rowdies Have Disappeared. Troy, N. Y., March 7 .- John McGough of the men who did the shooting yesterday at the election polls, was seriously wounded in the hip, although he escaped after the shooting of Robert and William Ross. The police know, but will not divulge, the location of McGough, but it is Intimated that his wounds may prove fatal. "Bat" Shea, who, it is alleged, murdered Robert Ross, is in jail. The pistol wound he received in the head during the melee was not serious. Three hours after he was shot he returned to the polling place where the tragedy occurred.

The condition of William Ross, who was shot in the head, is said to be improved and it is not believed fatal consequences in his case will ensue. "Jerry" Cleary, who was one of the trio that opened fire on the crowd at the polling place, disappeared at the time and has not since been seen. John H. FRUIT SHIPPERS GET THEIR MONEY

The Receiver Is Ordered to Pay Another Claim, an Electric Light Company Being the Creditor.

Macon, Ga., March 7 .- (Special.)-A ques-Macon, Ga., March 7.—(special.)—A question of interest to the fruit growers of Georgia came before Judge Speer this morning. Last season the authorities of all the railroads touching at Fort Valley agreed that they would not give through wills of lading on fruits unless the chicago. agreed that they would not give through bills of lading on fruits unless the shippers would sign such bills as contain the stipu-lation that the railroad would not be liable in excess of $300 for a car load of peaches. In excess of $300 for a car load of peaches. No other rates were given. The shippers were obliged to accept these bills, but in each case they did so under protest. A large number of cars shipped over the Central railroad were derailed through the negligence of the railroad company and the peaches destroyed. Suit was brought by intervention against the receiver and this morning Judge Speer made a ruling of great temportance to a number of people who are importance to a number of people who are engaged in the production of fruit. He said

This is not a fair, agreed-upon valuation which is not a fair, agreed-upon valuation which is binding upon the parties. These shippers at Fort Valley were completely in the power of the railroad companies. All railroads going in there agreed among themselves that they would not transport any peaches—an article which must be shipped at once and promptly in order to any peaches—an article which must be shipped at once and promptly in order to get any profit on it at all—unless the shippers would sign a bill of lading by which the company itself limited its liability to 300. It is true that the shippers might have shipped upon a local bill of lading, or that is the effect of it, paying local or that is the effect of it, paying local rates, and it is practically conceded that such shipment would have been utterly destructive of any profits which might have resulted to the shippers from the sale of the fruits thus shipped. The stipulation in the bill of lading does not coincide with the stipulation in the bill of lading as set forth in the case of Harr vs. Pennsylvania railroad 112, United States. There the stipulation was in this language: 'The car-rier assumes a liability on the stock to the extent of the following agreed valuation.' Then the shipper agreed to that valuation. He agreed to it without protest. Here, not only is there no agreed valua-tion, but to the railroad company's statement of its liability the shipper refuses to assent. But his hand is in the lion's mouth. He is obliged to obey the mandate of the railroad company, and therefore he is compelled to sign on the chance of getsigns, but he signs under protest. This is not a fair agreement as to the value of this freight which the courts will enforce. Not only is that true, but it is also true, if the court does not misunderstand the evidence that there was no other rate fixed for the shipment of peaches from Fort Valley. The peaches shipped were worth largely more than $300 per car. One hundred and seventyfive dollars was paid on each car, which certainly is a fair compensation for all risks that the railroad company will take in carrying these cars to New Yor ...

"Through negligence the cars were de railed and the peaches destroyed, and it is plain that the receiver should pay for them. It seems that the master has made a trifling arithmetical error in finding a few more crates in one car than were ac-tually shipped, and that will be corrected, but in all else the court will affirm the rul-lag of the master and direct the receiver to pay the amount of the finding."

The finding amounts to about $5,000. This was the sum found by the master and the road appealed to the United States court and Judge Speer confirmed the finding by the master. It is not understood that the receiver will object to this ruling of the court, but the question being in a measure novel, it was deemed proper to have it

Intervention of Henry Horne. In regard to the intervention of Henry Horne against the Central road Judge Speer

"This is similar to the case of the Brush Electric Light Company which the court decided in Savannah. The Brush Electric Light Company made a contract with the Central railroad to furnish it a number of lights for its properties there and the Central agreed to pay so much rental, to analogize it more strongly, for each one of the lights. The Central went out of business. The electric light company was not notified of the change and the court held that the Central railroad and the Richmonia and Danville railroad were both liable to the electric light company for the loss so sustained. Now this case appears to be strictly analogous to that—only that houses have been rented instead of lights. I am very strongly inclined to think, and if you have no other authority, will hold that this is a preferential claim, and it having been created so recently before the appointment of the receiver, and the receiver having taken the road as a 'running road,' the receiver will be directed to pay the amount of the claim. It counsel for the receiver desire to do so, they can appeal."

DIDN'T CANVASS THE VOTE. A Surprise in the Supreme Court of

Michigan. Lansing, Mich., March 7.—Attorney Gen-

Lansing, Mich., March 7.—Attorney General Ellis sprang a surprise in the supreme court today in the case brought by the governor for a mandamus to compel a recanvass of the vote on the salary amendment of 1891. He asked leave to amend his answer and presented the affidavit of I. N. Cowdry, clerk of Gratiot county, in 1891, to the effect that the county canvassers adjourned that year without making any canvass whatever of the vote cast on the amendment increasing the salary of the attorney general, and that he wrote them upon the record without being canvassed. He also presented the affidavit of the present county clerk that he is unable to discover any original canvass.

These affidavits show that no canvass of the amendment vote of 1891 was made in Gratiot county. If the court decides the vote in Gratiot county shall not be counted, the amendment will have a majority of 287 votes, after subtracting the 10,000 votes illegally added in Gogebic county. The court has the papers under advisement.

Remorse Drives a Man to Walk a Long Distance to Right a Wrong Done to an Innocent Person.

Augusta, Ga., March 7 .- (Special.)-Anna Miller, a half witted negress, was burned to death at her home in Jennings alley tonight. She lay down by a fire and went to sleep. In turning over the flames caught her dress.

C. F. Toms, a prominent young lawyer of Henderson, N. C., and Miss Ethel Panknin, of Charleston, who has been visiting Mr. Beall in Augusta, were married here at noon today by Dr. Lansing Burrows. The bride has won many warm friends in Augusta during her visits here. Mr. and Mrs. Toms left for St. Paul and thence will go to San Francisco.

James Walden, of Jefferson county, was arrested a few days ago and brought to Augusta and carried before United States Commissioner Calvin upon a charge of running an illicit distillery. The men who swore against Walden and had been sent to jail to stand trial, afterward confessed to Commissioner Calvin that they had per for commissioner Caivin that they had perjured themselves. They are J. F. Brazells and Steve Carroll, both white men. Walden was released upon the confession of the perjurers, who will be prosecuted. Brazells testified that he had told an untrue story on the former preliminary trial. He said that Jim Walden, whom he said before was connected with a still, was wrongly accused by him. He said he had given in his former testimony under threats from Mr. Mann Padgett, believing that Padgett would kill him at his fireside if he did not do so. Carroll, a man sixty-five years of age, stood up in the commissioner's court to say he had actually walked from the wire-grass section back to Augusta to "undo what I have done and to beg pardon of Gol and the court for the false statements to which I swore before." He expressed the most contrite penitence for the wrong he had done. He proved conspiracy and onerated Jim Walden. His rendition of his testimony was very pathetic. Remorse had stricken his conscience and he was eager to correct his former statements. Pearl Little, daughter of Mr. B. Mitchell, nad a close call this afternoon. She found a box of rough on rats under the house and used it to play with as tooth powder. The child was given strong emetics and saved. THE HUNGARIAN COURT ORCHESTRA

They Will Play Tomorrow Night at DeGive's Marietta Street House. It is indeed very seldom that Atlanta is visited by such a splendid musical organization as the Royal Hungarian Court or-chestra, which will give a concert tomor-row night at DeGive's opera house. Every member of the orchestra is an artist of lown, having played in the best musical organizations of Europe and America.

Mr. P. K. Matus, the world-renowned clarinet virtuoso, is the leader. He is well and favorably known in Atlanta, where he was soloist with Pat Gilmore during last tour through the southern states music is so sweet, so enchanting, no music so weird, none so pleasing as the Hunga rian dance music, and when rendered by such artists must bedoubly charming. The Mabel Paige Engagement. The stage at the Edgewood avenue thea-ter last night was covered with flowers presented to little Mabel Paige who has sung and danced her way into the hearts of the Edgewood's patrons. Last night "Little Miss Mischief," a roaring farce company, was presented.

This comedy is filled with funny situations, funny people and funny songs. During the performance little Mabel was called upon several times to accept handsome floral designs presented by her friends. At the matinee this afternoon, "The Little Egyptian," a musical extravaganza, will be given. Immediately after the perform-ance the little actress will hold a reception be given. Immediately after the performance the little actress will hold a reception for ladies and children on the stage.

After the reception one hundred presents will be given away to children. At every performance tickets will be given away for a drawing Saturday night of three prizes amounting to $25.

Restoring Sight Tells.

Mr. J. T. Jones, of 30 Bradley street, is well known, both in and out of the city, by railroad men. He is a machinist employed at the Kichmond and Danville boiler shops and has been cross-eyed over torty-five years. Ever since Dr. J. Harvey Moore, the oculist in the Kiser building, has been here, Mr. Jones's chopmates have been at him to have his eyes straightened. He had got used to the disfigurement and cared nothing for that, but his sight was rapidly failing, and he made up his mind something must be done. He called on Dr. Moore and had both eyes operated on by the doctor's painless method and returned to his work, and has worked every day since. He says: "I can't tell any one how much better I can see to read or do my work. Everything looks so much plainer and larger than before my eyes were operated on, and each succeeding day I can see so much better than the day before, until I wonder how in the world I ever got along all the years I did with my eyes in the condition they were. I owe much to Dr. Moore and he will always be remembered gratefully by me. I had often thought about having my eyes straightened, but could not spare the time, but when I found that by Dr. Moore's method I would lose no time, that I could not only work each day, but that my sight would be better, I tried it and it has turned out just as he said."

CITY HALL NOTES.

Will Meet Today. Will Meet Today.

The board of aldermen will meet today and the work which was passed up by the general council at the last meeting will be considered. The biggest item on the bill will be the new sewers which were ordered by the council last Monday. These involve the expenditure of some $30,000 or $35,000, and will be considered by the board. That the board will concur in the action of the council is assured as the sewers were all petitioned for by the people in the neighborhood where they will be constructed.

Patrolman Bob Brazelton, who was injured sometime ago and lost several days on account of his injuries, has been awarded pay commensurate with the money he would have earned had he not been off duty. He was one of the best men on the force, and the fact that the council has granted the money to pay for the time he lost, is only a recognition of the fact that the city will appreciate the services of those who are hurt while discharging duties for Will Meet Today.

The street committee of the general council will convene today and make a tour of inspection of the work which has been asked for at the last meeting of the council. A great batch of petitions came in last Monday for street work, and the members of the committee will go over all the ground today so as to make the report to the council at the next meeting.

The Exposition.

The time has arrived when we must know whether or not we are to have the exposition on the broad plans proposed for it.

We thought this question had been settled in the affirmative weeks ago, but it has been literally hanging by a thread for nearly two weeks, and today it seems that the question is no nearer solution than it was this time two weeks ago. During this period not a dollar has been subscribed, notwithstanding the fact that nearly $65,000 had been received in voluntary subscriptions before the movement was brought to such a sudden pause.

We blame no one. It is not a time to place responsibility, but it is necessary for Atlanta to get together and settle this very important question.

It is best, however, to talk plainly and to let it be understood that to continue any longer the present state of indefinite suspension is to practically abandon all hope of the exposition, and to invite the ridicule of the outside world at Atlanta's failure. If division continues over the simple matter of location, it will destroy all the good effects of the exposition, even if in the end we get

Continued division will but demonstrate the city's weakness by exhibiting such childish evidences of internal dissension:

We have no arguments to make, and no persuasion to offer about this location or that location. But we do say dissension must come to an end at once, and that the matter must be settled at today's meeting.

So far as The Constitution is concerned, we propose to get down to other business, if the matter is not settled at once. We have published hundreds of columns about the exposition, and have isted, to the full extent of our ability, in advertising and emphasizing the great prominence that it has given Atlanta throughout the country. Throughout the western hemisphere the matter has been discussed, and Atlanta's pluck and enterprise has been commended. Every day's delay serves now but to embarrass the movement, and rather than have it choked to death by slow degrees, it is better that a definite settlement. one way or the other, be reached at once.

We had earnestly hoped to have the exposition movement backed by united Atlanta. If by petty dissension and unprecedented stubbornness the movement fails, it will be through no fault of ours. If the people of Atlanta want a village, they can get it by working to that end, and The Constitution can stand it if others can.

Many of Atlanta's most prominent, liberal and enterprising citizens stand ready to go down into their pockets and back this great Atlanta enterprise with their money, and what is infinitely more valuable, they propose to give it their undivided attention and support until it has accomplished its commendable purpose in the development of Atlanta. They have considered every movement, step by step, and have manifested their liberal spirit in every way possible.

It is not the time now to talk about blaming any one for the failure of the movement, for the movement has not yet failed. Nor must it do so. But the matter must be settled definitely today, one way or another, and if after this, failure is the result, and Atlanta stands disgraced and dishonored before the world, there will be no trouble about placing the blame where it properly belongs. Who is willing to bear that

"Why Attack the Administration?"

The patronage organs which have characterized the efforts of The Constitution for the redemption of every pledge of the democratic platform as "an attack on the administration" are just at the present time engaged in a more vicious attack on a part of the administration than even the most serious they have charged against The Constitution.

The difference between The Constitution and the patronage press is that this paper has had the manhood to stand on the democratic platform, and contend day in and day out, for the recognition and redemption of every pledge. It has made an uncompromising fight for party nesty, while the patronage press has sed just so much of the democratic platform as happened to suit its purpose, and has swallowed republican doctrine and republican appointments as choice morsels. Heretofore whenever we have entered a protest against any policy adopted by the administration, wheth it be mugwump, republican or what not, the patronage heelers have thrown their mouths wide open, and yelled "attacking the administration!" Congress is a component part of the administration, and the senate is a com ponent part of congress. And yet we find one of the loudest shrickers of the patronage gang, notifying the people through its Washington correspon yesterday that "it is hard to tell whether simplicity or cupidity is the actuating motive on the democratic side of the senate," and then this essential and highly important part of the adminis tration is attacked as follows: If the democratic senators are trying to wreck their party and to so long delay tariff reform that its fruits cannot be tested, they are moving in the right direction. It is certain that nearly every member of the finance committee is regarded with picion. The delay in reporting the almost been criminal, especially w of the fact that every rumor w come; from the committee room affects the stock market and several members of the committee are large speculators. It be difficult for some senators to come of

We protest against this "attack on the administration" from those who have done nothing else for the past six months but condemn The Constitution and other papers for demanding the redemption of every pledge of the democratic platform charging against it, and the great number of democratic papers who agree with it, an "attack on the administration."

We do not remember ever having gone as far in attacking any branch of the administration as to make the direct charge of "simplicity and cupidity," but going further than that the aforesaid critic of The Constitution actually insinuates that "the democratic senators are trying to wreck their party." Away with such insinuations! To say the least of it, it does not seem graceful for a newspaper representative of a member of the cabinet to make such a serious charge jagainst a co-ordinate branch of the administration. Nor would it look so bad if the same influence had not been directed to the establishment of the single gold standard, while it remains perfectly silent at the apparent side tracking of the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks and other essential features of the plat form of the party. Let us have no more such "attacks on the administra-

A Startling Report.

The report of Special Examiner Chalmers, of the department of justice, which, by the way, was published exclusively by The Constitution, has created a sensation.

In this report Mr. Chalmers makes it plain that some of the federal officials in Alabama have prostituted their positions, and have oppressed the people, imprisoning hundreds of innocent men, and manufacturing fraudulent fee and expense accounts to the extent of at least $50,000 a year. Names have been forged in expense accounts and money has been poured out like water to pay bogus witness fees. But this is not all. The special examiner intimates that similar out rages are probably occurring in every state in the union.

Mr. Chalmers recommends a change in the mode of appointing United States commissioners. Hé would have them appointed by the president, and suggests that they should be lawyers of good standing. The fee system should be abolished and the officials should be paid fixed salaries. A further investiga tion is recommended with a view to punishing the persons who have been guilty of these frauds and acts of oppression.

The department of justice is moving in the right direction, but it would be well to have a special congressional committee look into the matter and go to the bottom of it. The methods of the federal commissioners and deputy marshals should be investigated in every state, and no guilty man should be allowed to escape.

It is safe to say that much of this alleged corruption and oppression is due to republican administration and to the nature of our internal revenue laws. These odious statutes are detested by the people, and just judges have frequently condemned them. Our internal revenue system keeps some localities practically in a state of civil war all the year round. Frequently their enforcement is left to unscrupulous men, and rapine, bloodshed, perjury and the spoliation and imprisonment of the innocent have been among the results.

We cannot hope for an immediate and sweeping reform, but if congress will take up the report of Mr. Chalmers and act upon it many abuses will doubtless be corrected, and the federal crusade of robbery and violence in many states will be stopped. Something should be done without delay.

Human Nature in New Jersey.

When the good people of Franklin Park, N. J., discovered the other morning that during the night two negroes had murdered Mrs. Baker and her infant while asleep their indignation was unbounded. It was some consolation to know that Mr. Baker had killed the two assassins, but the Franklin Park people felt that something more was needed. One law abiding citizen offered to be one of a half dozen men to hang the father of one of the negroes, but he was persuaded to give up his design. The citizens generally declare that they would have lynched the murderers if Baker had not killed them. Some say that they would have flayed them alive and others say that they would have burned them. The people of this New Jersey village have heretofore condemned southerners for occasionally lynching negro rapists and murderers. But as soon as the provocation came home to them they were transformed into the open advocates of lynch law. As we have had occasion to remark before, human nature is very much the same everywhere. There are certain horrible crimes that would cause lynchings and perhaps burning at the stake in even the most peaceful New

Go Slow, Colonel!

The friends of Colonel Atkinson must regret the tenor of his recent speech at

It is reported that the colonel had a good deal to say about his services in the legislature, and as chairman of the state democratic executive committee. He claimed that he had done more for the relief of the people of Georgia in political matters than General Evans, but admitted that the general had done much towards preparing them for the world to come. He thought that if they were to be rewarded for what they had done, the general should have his reward in the hereafter, while Mr. Atkinson would take his now and let the here after take care of itself.

Possibly this sort of talk amuses the thoughtless, but it will not win votes for Colonel Atkinson. The speaker might at least give the Georgia legislature some slight degree of credit for the measures that have received the approval of that body. Certainly, he does not propose to let the conclusion be drawn that he stood in the capitol single handed, and originated and passed the great body of all recent legislation. The colonel should recognize his brother legislators, and give them their due.

His light way of treating the ministerial work of a servant of Christ is calculated to shock serious people, and the touch of ridicule given to the solemn subject of a hereafter is anything but pleasing.

The people of Georgia do not like this style of campaigning. Self-praise and boasting never attract or win. A modest man like General Evans who has nothing to say about his splendid services in the field makes a far more favorable impression than a man who claims the lion's share of credit for everything, and minimizes the work of his associates. Our people are well satisfied that General Evans has done some thing to help them in the present, as well as in the hereafter. But for such men, heroes in war, and wise, patient and unselfish in peace, Georgia would not stand where she does today.

Colonel Atkinson should tone down a little, and prune his extravagant rhetoric. He need not overwork his political record. The people will measure him with his opponent, and they will form their own opinions. Above all, let us have no more of this light chaff about the spiritual work of earnest Christians who devote their lives to the service of God and their fellow men. If Colonel Atkinson thinks only of the present, we cannot help it, but the majority of our readers take a more serious view of life and its responsibilities. Go slow, colonel!

Justice to Macon Democracy. We protest against the effort of The Macon Telegraph, and the other papers which, naturally, from patronage influences are unwilling to do old-fashioned democrats justice, to seek to make it appear that the distinguished democratic members of the Macon bar approve of the appointment of such eminent republicans as Gresham, MacVeagh, ex-President Harrison's brother, and innumerable others, to high positions under a democrati administration

And yet, by inference, the leading men who took part in last Saturday's rockribbed democratic meeting in Macon, are unjustly put in the category of endorsing the appointment of republicans to office. In other words The Telegraph takes the position that the Macon democrats simply protested against the appointment of a Macon republican to office, and that the Macon meeting was entirely serene and non-committal as to the appointment of distinguished republicans from other parts of the country. Of course The Telegraph is more than pleased to take this position, since it naturally does not wish to admit that a local protest has been filed against its constant readiness to endorse and approve mugwump and republican appoint ments. Yet we insist upon the fact that the democrats of Macon are overwhelmingly with The Constitution, and that their admiration of our determined stand against the appointment of republicans and mugwumps to office, under a demo cratic administration, is largely responsible for the doubling of The Constitution's circulation in Macon during the past year. The truth of the matter is, there are about as many Constitutions -perhaps more-read in Macon now as there are Telegraphs.

The Telegraph says that "Saturday night's meeting did not pass judgment on the question, and did not have it under consideration," referring to the appointment of Gresham, MacVeagh and other such instances. Yet The Tele graph says: There was expression of opinion, of course, that republicans should not be appointed to office by a democratic administration, and this expression came as freely from those opposed to any action by the meeting as from the advocates of an extreme course. That is democratic opinion and its expression was natural under the

This is just what The Constitution has been arguing all along, and The Tele graph has come just exactly to our po sition. In order that there may be no possible doubt as to the tone of the remarks of the Macon meeting, we quote again from the proceedings as reported in The Telegraph, as follows:

Hon. Minter Wimberly, ex-president of the Young Men's Democratic League, of Bibb county, protested in his speech against "the appointment of republicans anywhere in the south." Hon. Washington Dessau wanted to know "if the appointment of republicans in this community, under a demo cratic administration, should pass un challenged and unnoticed by the demo crats of Bibb county.' Hon. DuPont Guerry expressed the belief that "the democratic administration ought to appoint democrats to office, Hon. Joseph H. Hall declared that "If

In his concluding address that sterling and rock-ribbed young democrat, Hon. Washington Dessau, said:

I want to know and want to ask my feldemocrats, should we further s without protest to having democratic pa-tronage taken from us here? (Loud and continuous applause and many voices of

Mr. Chairman, there is still in office publican postmaster here whose term ex-red two months ago, and when there has to yet been a public protest made against hat, are we going to be still and see all these things taken away from us wi even a protest? Now, tell me, democrats, ask you to answer me? (Many voices of "Protest! Protest!") All this goes to show that The Constitution does not misrepresent the democratic sentiment of Macon when it declares it to be overwhelmingly against the appointment of republicans to office, whether they come from Macon or from any other part of the United States. We insist that the Macon democracy shall not be misrepresented, and we do not propose to pass unnoticed such attacks as are made on it by The Telegraph as long as we have as large a circulation in Macon as that paper.

The Macon Evening News correctly summarizes the situation and does justice to the copper-bottomed democracy of Macon in the following editorial state ment:

The tone of the meeting throughout was against bestowing democratic patro upon republicans. But the fact remains, nevertheless, that the democrats of Bibb county have entered their emphatic protest against the bestowal This may appear to pot to some, but to others it seems very significant, especially in view of some ap-pointments of this character that have oven distasteful to the rank and file of e democratic party of late.

Act Promptly.

There is not the slightest reason why the seigniorage bill should delay the tariff measure in the senate, nor is there the slightest reason why the seigniorage bill itself should be delayed.

The subject with which it deals has been gone over time and again, and to attempt to debate it now would be to give the senate over to a season of empti-

There is no peason why the two meas ures should run foul of each other. Let the senate, some bright morning, while the democrats of the finance committee are dealing with the agents of the sugar trust and the eastern protectionists, dispose of the seigniorage bill by passing it. It is a democratic measure framed in the interests of the people, and the democrats in the senate ought to vote solidly in favor of it. .

We understand very well why it is to the interest of the agents of the sugar trust and the protected interests to antagonize the Wilson bill-or what is left of it-with the seigniorage measure, but this is precisely what the democrats ought to avoid.

Pass the seignlorage bill while the finance committee is doctoring the tariff bill, and then rush the latter through!

A Queer Announcement.

The announcement of the democratic congressional campaign committee that the tariff is to be the issue in the approaching campaign is a startling piece of information.

The tariff was the issue in the last campaign. The democrats clearly set rth in their declaration of prin the purposes which they had in view with respect to tariff reform. There was no evasion, no straddling, no temporizing. The purposes of the party were plainly stated. Some of the professional politicians and trimmers made wry faces over the tariff plank, but with that plank as one of the issues, the party went before the people, and the people endorsed its position by an overwhelming majority. Thus it was that the democrats were given a clear commission by the people to frame a tariff for revenue only, to substitute bimetallism for the Sherman purchase act, and to carry out their pledges and their policy to the fullest ex-

Why, then, from a democratic point of view, should the party undertake to make the tariff an issue in the approach ing campaign? It was an issue in the last campaign, and if ever the people settled any issue by their votes they certainly settled that. They endorsed the platform, they selected a democratic congress and a democratic administration to carry out the reforms promised and that was as far as they could go. But, so far as the people are concerned the tariff issue was settled when they placed the democratic party in power with the understanding that the McKinley law was to be wiped out and a tar iff for revenue only substituted. In view of all these facts and circum stances the announcement of the demo cratic congressional campaign commit tee that the tariff is to be the issue in the approaching campaign is more than interesting. It is absolutely startling. It is difficult to say whether the cam paign committee regards the people as a vast aggregation of dunces, or whether the announcement is in the nature of

We can understand very well how th republicans might be anxious to make an issue of the tariff for the purpose of overthrowing democratic legislation, but it is difficult to understand how the democrats, in full control of the government can undertake to make the tariff an is sue in an approaching campaign. The people settled the issue in 1892, and it now remains for the democrats to carry out their tariff policy and pledges. What is to prevent them from doing it? What is standing in the way now? The re publicans have no power to defeat tariff reform provided the democrats choose to redeem their pledges. It is impossible to deceive the people in this matter. There can be no break down in the democratic policy unless democrats themselves connive at it There would have been no collapse in the democratic financial policy if democrats had not united with the republians to defeat that policy. Are we to espect to the tariff question? Let us

On what ground, then, and with what hope of success, can the democratic connal campaign committee make the tariff the issue in the approaching campaign? The issue ought to be settled now when the party has complete control of all the branches of government. It ought to be settled now so that the party could go before the people in the approaching campaign and say to them: "We congratulate you! The tariff issue has been settled in accordance with the promises and pledges made to you, and in accordance with your desires. We have lightened your burdens of taxation. We have struck out protection for protection's sake, and hereafter your government will be supported by the revenues derived from customs duties. We have carried out your commands with respect to the tariff and we confidently ask you to endorse what we have done."

That is the only way the democrats can afford to make the tariff an issue. They cannot go before the people with new tariff pledges so long as those already made remain unredeemed. They cannot go before the people and ask for more time to enable them to carry out their tariff programme, for by the time the fall elections take place, the party will have been in power nearly two years. It has had ample time during the past twelve months to carry out the tariff pledge and relieve the people of the burdens of taxation, but six months of that time were wasted by reason of a refusal to call an extra session, while the other six were wasted in laying siege to the party and compelling the majority in congress to consent to the crime of gold monometallism and in tampering with the trusts and protected interests. But it is not too late to deal promptly with the tariff issue. The democrats still have time to carry out their policy and redeem their pledges. Nevertheless what is to be done should be done quickly. Not an hour nor a day should be lost. The people are waiting. It is to be hoped they will not have to wait too long.

The people do not want any tariff issue n the next campaign. They want it settled now.

The Gwinnett Herald says: "General Evans, it is said, will carry every county south of Macon except one or two. The wiregrass boys are not disposed to elbow the old soldier out of the way. Hall, Gwinnett, Forsyth and Milton are regarded as doubtful, but they will fall into line."

"While it is very evident that General Evans is the choice of the majority it will not do for his supporters to be idle. The fight is on and the people must see to it that General Evans is their next governor."

TALK OF GEORGIA TOWNS.

The Sandersville Progress says:

"There is really no 'hard times' in this county, according to the general acceptation of the term. Every prudent farmer has an abundance of provisions, no one is suffering for the necessaries of life and while it is true there is a scarcity of the 'circulating medium' on account of the low price of cotton, which is the money crop, the people are generally better off than ever before."

The Quitman Free Press says:

"The people of this county may have less money than ever, or as little as at any time, but it is most gratifying to know that there are more provisions in the county than there have ever been at this season. A successful farmer gives it as his opinion that in that respect the people of the county are better prepared for hard times with provisions than they have been since the war. Gradually the farmers are awakening to the fact that provisions first and cotton accordance in absolutely necessary for the to the fact that provisions firs secondary is absolutely necess

TODAY MUST DECIDE

The Question of Exposition Site Will Probably Be Settled.

THE COMMITTEES TO GET TOGETHER

Again at 3 O'clock and Will Try to Reach a Conclusion.

THE EXPOSITION BOARD WILL ALSO MEET

And It Is Sincerely Hoped That a Decision on All the Points in Controversy
Will Be Reached.

This will be a most important day in the history of the exposition movement. Two meetings will be held this afternoon that will, in all probability, settle the question of site and all the other points in controversy, and it is believed that the delay that has been so hurtful to the exposition movement will be at an end-that the work of building and pushing this grand rement to success will be resumed.

Yesterday was a day of inaction, or rather a day of lack of accomplishment; for. while President Hemphill and Mayor Goodwin were in conference several times during the day, so far as can be learned there was no agreement reached. During the afternoon Mayor Goodwin extended an invitation to all the members of the committees to visit the waterworks today, and that visit will be made.

The Propositions, Discussed.

The two propositions presented to the meeting of the conference committees Tuesday afternoon were widely discussed about the city yesterday. The merits of each proposition was strongly urged by its advocates and everybody you met talked ex-opposition to the issue of bonds idea sub-mitted by Mayor Goodwin, and many people who have advocated the waterworks site say they would vote against such issue of bonds. This opposition is heard on all sides and is just as pronounced as was the opposition to the first proposition to purchase the Piedmont grounds and convert them into a north side park.

It is a noticeable fact, however, that very many of those who opposed the first proposition-that is the purchase of the park-have come out now in favor of the last plan submitted by President Hemphill as one upon which all interests can unite. Many of the men who have advocated the waterworks as the proper site say that under this last plan proposed by President Hemphill the Piedmont grounds are unquestionably preferable.

One of the men who strongly opposed the purchase of Piedmont park and whose opinions on that point were so strong that he ceased attending meetings of the exposition board, though he had been chosen a member, is Mr. T. B. Neal. Mr. Neal was a prominent figure in the meeting which endorsed the mayor's veto and he expressed his views in no uncertain language.

Mr. T. B. Neal's Views. Yesterday Mr. Neal gave his hearty endorsement of the proposition made by President Hemphill. He said: "I think that the first proposition submitted by the exposition company was made after due deliberation, and was what they thought the very best for the whole city. I also think Mayor Goodwin's counter proposition is equally sincere, and, as a business proposition, looking to the future benefits to the city, is the better of the two. I recognize that it is impossible to get a united support to either plan. In the proposition recommended by Mr. Hemphill there are modifications and concessions which I think the Goodwin committee should accept at once as final, and give it support. I think it one on which every friend of the exposition in this city can unite."

Mr. Neal expressed these sentiments very

One of these was Mr. A. D. Adair. Mr. Adair was one of the gentlemen wno endorsed Mayor Goodwin's veto and who was strongly against the purchase of the Fiedmont grounds.

What Mr. Adair Thinks. "I am for the exposition wherever it may be held," said Mr. Adair, "but naturally all my personal preferences are for the south side. I was against the proposition which involved the purchase of the Pied-mont grounds. Since I have read President Hemphill's last proposition, which elimi nates that purchase idea, I do not hesitate to say that in my opinion it should be adopted. It looks to me as the best way by which the city, through its government, can extend the aid to the prise that it ought to give. I sincerely hope it will be adopted, and I hope that there will be no further delay. This delay is hurtful. The committees ought to get together on some plan at once, and the plan suggested by President Hemphill seems to me to eliminate all the features that were objectionable in that first proposition."

Mr Dodd Won't Talk.

Mr. Green Dodd, who is a member of Mayor Goodwin's committee, and who in his speech at Tuesday's meeting endorsed the plan of Mr. Hemphill, refused to talk yesterday when asked for an expression of his

"I am a member of the committee," said he, "and I do not think it would be right for me to talk for publication at this time. I will say this, however, " he continued, "if that proposition now made by President Hemphill had been the one first made to the council, I would never have gotten up before the council and obejeted as I did." Views like these of Mr. Neal and Mr.

Adair were very generally expressed yesterday. "I have just come from a meeting of business men," said Mr. Adair, "and seven of the nine present thought the Hemphill proposition a fair basis of compromise and that it should be adopted as such." These are but a few of the many instances. Mr. Neal and Mr. Adair are quoted because they are south side men and because they openly opposed the first proposition-that for the purchase of the park grounds.

It All Depends. Today's meeting should decide the question. It looks now as if the crisis has been reached and as if something must be done today or the exposition dropped.

And, of course, everybody agrees on this: Atlanta cannot afford to drop the exposi-

I happened to be a fellow townsman of Mr. Rouss in Winchester, Va., in the old days and as a boy used to play many times with him in his store; he a merchant and I a schoolboy. It is true, that after the collapse of the confederacy, during which he was a devoted follower of Stonewall Jackson, he went to New York a penniless man. He started in business and accumulated a for-tune. When Winchester wanted to build an iron fence around her confederate cemetery an appeal was made to her citizens for aid, and Mr. Rouss hearing of the same for warded his check for the whole amount to defray the entire expenses of the material and work. Prior to this and during the war he purchased the products of the Virwar he purchased the products of the virginia salt works for one year and presented the same to the confederate cause. Gold in the South. From The St. Louis Republic.

From The St. Louis Republic.

The mining craze seems to have struck some portions of Georgia and Alabama pretty hard. A score or more of new gold mines have been opened in these states within the last three or four months, and a good many old ones are being worked as they were never before.

George Huntington Clark predicts in The Manufacturers'. Record that in the immediate future the gold fields of Georgia are going to surprise the old doubters as much as the development of southern iron did. The richest gold mines of that state are as yet untouched, he says.

Georgia's gold belt covers a strip of country from twenty to forty miles wide, and extending across the state from northeast to southwest, embracing about 7,000 square miles. It runs into Alabama and spreads out over some 3,500 square miles more in that state. Georgia's mines have so far produced over $16,000,000 worth of gold and silver, or more than those of any other southern state except North Carolina.

The Good Gibbs, of Texas
From The Galveston Daily News.
Governor Hogg wiped a fly off of his bald head and said: "Whistle, have you seen Gibbs lately?"
The reporter replied in the negative, and, turning to Mr. Croker, the governor said: "You ought to meet Gibbs. I believe I'll wire him to meet us. He's a regular daisy. He's half baid, and what little hair he has got sets up like the fur on a coon's back. Altogether he looks like a dago, and he's the smartest, wittlest, and best fellow on earth. I love Gibbs from away back. When he's your friend he stands by you in seven languages."

Officials of the Atlanta and West Point Don't Favor It.

THE LINK TO THE OLD WATERWORKS

Passenger Rates Will Not Be Cut-A Joke on Captain Todd-Other Railroad News of Interest

It now turns up that there is absolutely no certainty that the Atlanta and West Point railroad would build a "switch off" track to the old waterworks site in case the Cotton States and International exposition were carried there.
It has been freely told that the road had made its plans to build such a line and that it would certainly make the branch to get the business to and from the exposition but it now transpires that such talk was through the crown of somebody's hat. A telegram was received in Atlanta yes-terday by a private party from Colonel C. H. Phinizy, of Augusta, president of the Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company, in which he plainly states: "I have never made any sort of agreement to build the road in question. I have no power to make such an extension unless authorized by the directors of the railroad company. I told Mayor Goodwin that I was willing to do anything I could very well do to help the exposition movement out, and instructed our engineer of the railroad to go out and make an estimate of the cost of building the extension as desired by those who favor the old waterworks as the proper site for the exposition. Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company position.

"But, unless it can be built cheaply I would not recommend it to the board of directors, and not even then if the Central would build it.

C. H. PHINIZY." would build it.

Nothing could be more positive than the clear intimation that it is not the policy of the Atlanta and West Point railroad folks to build this extension of their road out o

Captain E. L. Tyler, general manager of the road, was seen by The Constitution last night, and corroborated the spirit of the telegram from Colonel Phinizy, by saying that he had heard of no such promise or pros pect of the extension being built. He says the matter would have to go through a long and circuitous route of formal hand-ling before the plan could be put in operation, even if it was found, after all, that the road would pay the company. It would have to be taken before the board of directors, and, after a thorough discussion there and adjustment, would have to come back to the engineering department and be shift ed from paper to paper and the proper route finally settled upon.

"The truth is," he said, "I don't think there would be much benefit to the company to build such a road as mentioned. I don't see how the line would be advantageous. It would have to be built very cheaply to make both ends meet. "Certainly there is no particular move-ment now afoot looking to the construc-tion of such a road further than the mere sending out of an engineer to see at what cost the road could be run. We were anxious to know just what the cost would b and sent an engineer over the field to look over the situation.

"Further than this there is no likelihood of the road being built, unless the directors of the company give their authority for such an undertaking, and they will not give their authority, I hardly think, unthe scheme can through to success at much less cost than I now think it can be done for."

Surely this gives poor promise of there being a link of rails from the main track of the Atlanta and West Point to the old waterworks, even if the exposition be car-

The report has gone forth that the recent cut of rates by the Louisville and Nashville on grain and such freights from the west will scatter demoralization to the passenger scale makers, and that the passenger rates for the south Atlantic states will be lowered accordingly.

The Louisville and Nashville is still a member of the Southern Passenger Associa-tion and so far as is known will remain a

Again, it has been told around among railroad men that the rate war that has been agitating passenger schedule fixers west of the Mississippi will be taken up on this side of the river and will throw Atthis side of the river and will throw Atlanta railroads soon or late into a general slashing of rates. This is also denied by authorities. As long as the Southern Passenger Association holds in tact there can be no such breaking of rates and it may be safely relied on that the passenger rates now in vogue throughout this region of country will hold good for some time to come.

She looked through the car in haste and came out with tears of disappointment trickling down her cheeks. has lost."
She had evidently lost something that was very dear to her. The conductor was distressed at her seeming anguish and tried in vain to comfort her. He finally said he thought some package had been put aboard the train and asked the porter to look it up. It wasn't long before the porter returned with a small pasteboard box and gave it to the woman. She opened it eagerly, and there within was what had caused her all her distress—her false teeth caused her all her distress—her false teeth fell upon the seat and all the passengers laughed while she, with unutterable gratification and delight, sprang into the arms of Captain Todd and squeezing him tightly about the neck kissed him several times over.

AN ALLEGED SCHEME.

Senators Morgan and Pugh Are Said to He Intended Victims.

Birmingham, Ala., March 7.—(Special.)—
The Peoples' Advocate claims to have unearthed a great political scheme, its prime object being to defeat Senators Morgan and Pugh and fill their places with Secretary Herbert and Congressman Oates, both strong administration men. Money was to be freely used and the administration was be freely used and the administration was to lend its helping hand. The combination, as The Advocate claimed to have it, was to work as follows: Judge Richardson, of to work as follows: Junge Archardson, of Huntsville, was to withdraw from the race for governor and throw his strength to Oates, who was to be nominated by fair means or foul and counted in if necessary. A majority of the legislature was to be counted in, who could be controlled by the administration. These should elect Herbert in the place of Morgan. After serving one term as governor Oates was to withdraw and throw his influence to Richardson, who Alabama's junior senator.

The Advocate claims that a prominent organized democrat explained the scheme. Commenting on it The Advocate says: "The withdrawal of Judge Richardson and the flop of The Huntsville Mercury to Oates in the last few days, looks as if a part of it were true at least. It now remains for the voters of Alabama to say whether or not these schemes will be allowed to relegate such men as Johnston, Morgan, Pugh, Denson and others to the rear in Alabama politics for no other sin rear in Alabama politics for no other sin than that of standing by the pledges they made the people."

A Worthy Negro Missionary Graciously Received by the Whites. Birmingham, Ala., March 7 .- (Special.)-To have been present and witnessed the polite and kindly attention which was ac-corded W. H. Shepherd, the colored evan-gelist, by the large and cultured audience which assembled in the First Presbyterian church of aristocratic Tuscaloosa last Sun-day night, would have taken the wind out of the sails of some of the northern editors, who love to carp on the lack of consideration shown the negroes by the people of the southern states. Shepherd was with the late Samuel V. Lapsley, the talented and self-sacrificing young minister, who went from Alabama as a minister two or three years ago to the Congo Free State. There the young preacher, who was so greatly beloved in Alabama, succumbed to the intense heat and died of fever. Shep-herd was with him in his illness and was exceedingly kind and attentive to the last. Hence when the negro missionary came to Tuscaloosa, where Lapsley was educated and where he was well known and greatly loved, the good people invited him to address them. The church was filled to over-flowing with cultivated people, who, for an hour and a half listened intently while the negro preacher told them, in his quiet, unassuming manner, of his life among the heathen of "darkest Africa." It is rather an unusual proceeding in Alabama for a negro to speak to a white congregation from its own pulpit, but it is stated that not a man who heard Shepherd regrets having done so.

Birmingham, Ala., March. 7.—(Special.)— It is said the Alabama state troops will go into brigade encampment next summer, most probably at or near Mobile. It appears that most of the companies favor the bri-gade encampment provided a different ar-rangement can be made for feeding the soldiers. At the last brigade encampment all were fed at once under an immense mess-shed and the hunger of many a gallant soldier was not appeased. It is suggested that to avoid this dissatisfaction the plan allowing each regiment to mess sepa-rately and look after its own "grub" supplies be adopted.

THE INDUSTRIALS IN BRISK DEMAND

Cotton Oil Even Waking Up-Lead Advances 31-8-Cotton Closed Unchanged, with Wheat Higher.

NEW YORK, March 7.-American Sugar NEW YORK, March 7.—American sugar was again the feature of the stock market. The price ranged from 90% to 95%, and closed at 94%, a net gain for the day of 3% per cent. The transactions were not as heavy as on yesterday, but still reached quite a respectable total, 99,800 shares having been traded in. The bears were not permitted to have control of the stock at any time, although, when it touched 90%, they were impressed with the idea that the bull movement was over, and they put out bull movement was over, and they put out fresh lines. The industrials were in brisk demand and moved up rapidly. Lead advanced 3½ to 31½, preferred 1½ to 76½; Cotton Oil 2½ to 25½; Whisky ½ to 25½; General Electric 1½ to 44, and American Tobacco ¾ to 75½. These stocks were influenced by Washington reports that the senate would grant some protection to the senate would grant some protection to the sugar, lead and other industries. At least this was the reason ascribed in the room for the improvement in the stocks. Covering of short contracts also played an important part in the rise. The general railway list was firm in the early trading in sympathy with the strength of American Sugar, bu later on, there was a reaction of ½ to 1 per cent. The decline was due to reports of gold shipments by Saturday's European steamer. Estimates placed exports on that day at fully $3,000,000. Later on, London houses bought round amounts of the Grangers, and other stocks, and this changed the temper of speculation, and the market left off strong with a net gain of \%@3\% per cent for the day. The failure of Hunter, Clarke & Jacob had no effect on the market. The firm dealt in privileges, and the rise in Sugar is said to have carried them down. Total sales were 283,000 shares, of which 163,000 were listed, and 119,000 unlisted. The tracing in railway and miscellaneous onds was strong with an active demand. The bull operators took courage at the announcement that the Bland seigniorage bill had the right of way over the tarif bill. They argued that in spite of the uncertainty the market had temporarily received a new lease of life. Shorts in St. Paul were very much alarmed over the persistent buying of commission houses. It was also announced officially that the board of directors was in full accord about declaring tomorrow the regular semi-annual 2 per cent dividend. Speculation in National Lead received an unexpected impetus on the information that, while lead will have to carry a higher duty than was imposed in the Wilson bill, there is now a very good chance of a compromise with the independent corroders. General Electric advanced to the top notch of the day or a renewal of purchases by the Drexel-Morgan interests. It is confidently believed that the deferred dividends on preferred will be paid in May.

On the stock exchange yesterday Sugar was the leader in point of action. The opening was at the lowest point of the day, and ½ per cent above the closing prices of Tuesday.

In the railway list St. Paul was the feature, advancing 1% per cent, and closing only per cent below the highest.

Rock Island was also active and scored an advance of 1% per cent, but most of the improvement war lost before the close, which was only % per cent above the close

Burlington and Quincy was at one time 3 per cent above the closing of Tuesday, most of which was held, the closing being only % below the highest, and 1% above the closing of the day before.

New York Daily Indicator. Sugar is at present, about the most uncer-tain speculation going. There has been no annual meeting since congress threatened annual meeting since congress threatened the company with adverse legislation, and there is no one ready to tell whether there is to be a dividend declared, although a year ago tomorrow there was a 13 per cent dividend declared. The last annual report issued by the company was for the eleven months ended November 30, 1892, fifteen months ago. Wide field for guessing here.

Atwood Violett & Co's. Cotton Letter.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Liverpool spot sales were large again today, 12,000 baies, Futures improved 1 to 2 points. This was not considered a sufficient response to our advance. The opening and first prices were at last night's prices, selling out 6 points afterwards. The character of buying has again been good, and quotations advanced 10 points over today's lowest, and from this another decline followed and we closed about the same as yesterday. The build'sh feature of the market, while not apparent to the general observer, inasmuch as the official figures will not be given until Friday, is that the loss of stock at interior points shows the sources from which the ports are drawing largely for their receipts, and while the daily port movement keeps a little in excess of last year, at the same time the interior is losing largely both in receipts and stock, and the latter we estimate at 15,000 to 20,000 loss on next Friday over Friday last. We shall not equal the amount that comes into sight this week last year—to what extent we cannot estimate until tomorrow. The position of the tariff bill in the senate is one that has naturally created a feeling of uncertainty today. With our ideas, however, as to the disappearance of the visible and invisible interior supplies confirming our estimate of 7,200,000 bales, and the figures of those who approximate ours, it is not safe to sell coton in view of the good spot demand at interior supplies confirming our estimate of 7,200,000 bales, and the figures of those who approximate ours, it is not safe to sell cotton in view of the good spot demand at Liverpool and the small amount remaining in the south comparatively and actually. A prominent and strong firm here are supposed to be very largely long of contracts which they have bought as an investment, believing that considerable profit will result therefrom. Another prominent and conservative firm here predicts 10 cents for cotton as a result of its statistical position and the uncertainties as to the size of the new crop. What discourages many who are buillishly inclined is that reactions have followed advances, as a rule purchases made under those circumstances have met with losses. Cotton may go lower, but it should go higher, and very much higher in our opinion, based upon facts in the way of supplies and foreign demand. The domestic inquiry for cotton continues on a small scale. As a confirmation of what has always been our belief, we quote the following from a communication to the editor of The Manchester Courier of February 21st in which the writer says: "Do you believe in Henry Neill?" a man asked me the other day." He is not only the best crop authority, I replied, but there is absolutely no other. Lancashire is indebted—has been again and again highly indebted—to Mr. Neill. In my opinion what hope there is for Lancashire during 1894 depends upon securing very cheap cotton has been realized because of the remarkable accuracy of Mr. Neill's estimate of the crop this year." The south, which has been a sufferer, should ask, which if it is raising cotton for the hence if the Lancashire.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The Liverpool market this morning showed an advance of about 8-84 on futures and some positions were 3-64d higher than yesterday's close. Spot sales were 12,000 bales. Private cables were encouraging, and the general expectation favored the hope that this market would open at a substantial advance. The expectation, however, was disappointed. The opening was at last night's prices, and a decline of about 6 points ensued as a result of bear selling. The semi-weekly interior movement as made up by the New Orleans cotton exchange is as follows: Receipts this week 15,450 bales against last year 18,501 bales. Shipments 24,114 bales, last year 18,501 bales. Shipments 24,114 bales, last year 23,141 bales. Stocks this week 255,251 bales, last year 345,615 bales. These figures were decidedly more bullish than the market had expected, the loss of stock especially exciting attention. The result was a marked change of sentiment and a sharp advance in prices. Memphis receipts for the day are 775 bales against 545 bales last year. St. Louis receives 575 bales against 1,000 bales last year. The total port movement for the day is estimated at 11,000 bales against 11,871 bales last week and 9,347 bales last year. New Orleans receipts for tomorrow are estimated at 3,000 bales against 5,465 bales last year. The market closed quiet at a reaction of some 6 points from the highest.

Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

NEW YORK, March 7.—(Special.)—The market to Jy gave further evidence of its unstable and changeable character. Liverpool showing further improvement, our opening was at slightly better prices. The interior and port receipts being rather heavier than had been expected caused many to sell at the advance and prices weakened. When the cotton to be sold had all been taken a better feeling ensued and the local buils began buying freely and for a time the market showed great firmness, but the buying gave out in the afternoon, just as the selling had ceased in the morning. The advance could not be held and a reaction followed: The close was rather below the opening prices with 7.58 bid for May. It seems as if those who buy upon breaks and sell upon rallies are pretty sure to make profits upon every turn. Riordan & Co.'s Cotton Circular.

Cotton Cossip. Cotton is supposed to have done remarkably well yesterday from the fact that & closed at very nearly the same figures as on the day before.

There is but one reason why cotton should not be selling at higher prices today, and that is the absence of a demand for the spot stuff by the American spinner. It is a well known fact that for quite a while the foreign spinner has been taking his full amount of cotton, and the receipts at the ports are known to be at the expense of the interior town stocks, and yet cotton is a drag on the market because the home consumption is not sufficient to force our spinners to take their usual quantity. Our stocks are gradually dwindling away, while on the other side they are slowly increasing, and, should a demand for manufactured goods suddenly spring up, which will most surely come in time, our spinners will find themselves minus the stock of goods, which is now reported low, and also a depleted stock of the raw material.

Higher prices for cotton will then follow, but our spinners will do the suffering. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, March 7.-As all prospects of a cold wave for the time being had disap-peared by this morning, the wheat, at least the portion of it, remaining unsoid, was for peared by this morning, the wheat, at least the portion of it, remaining unsoid, was for sale at any price. No encouragement was derived from the English cables, which, although not reporting any declines were neveruneless disappointing, from the fact they recorde no advance. Prices opened on the put price and the only support they received during the first hour or so, came from the holders of those privileges. Attention was then attracted by the unusual strength displayed in the northwest, both Minneapolis and Duluth being very firm. Buying orders became more plentiful and very shortly the early loss was recovered and additional gains added. Continental cables helped the better feeling and it was due to their influences that the clase was but a trifle under outside figures. May wheat opened %c under yesterday's close at 59%c, touched 59%c, then advanced to 60%c, closing %@½c higher than yesterday at 60½@60%c.

Corn opened weak with wheat. A good deal of short selling was indulged in about the start, the covering of these sales later in the day seryed to accenuate the stronger feeling which was derived from the better tone in wheat.

The extraordinary firmness in oats also helped matters on considerble. May ranged between 3% and 3%c, closing at the outside, a gain of %@%c for the day. This led everything on the floor as far as strength was concerned. Much nervousness among shorts was noticeable upon buying by a prominent long, who already has a profit in his holdings and was therefore pressing his advantage.

ings and was therefore pressing his advantage.

Provisions were firm and higher on a good general demand induced by a steady hog and grain market, and the strength particular in corn and oats. May pork closed with a gain of 20c over yesterday.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox. Manager.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Around the opening the wheat market was rather weak, mainly on account of the cold wave predicted yesterday not materializing, the weather being fine over most of the country. Coarse grains began to advance, however, and this caused a stronger feeling in wheat, then the northwestern markets became very strong, and reports from there were to the effect that receipts in the near future would be light. Duluth advanced 1½ over Chicago, and Minneapolis was correspondingly strong with light offerings under 60c. The fact that scalpers were bearish, local traders known as bulls having no wheat, and the rapidity with which offerings were absorbed were the principal causes of the advance. Local traders generally have been bearish, and holders are very much encouraged at the strength shown in the market. The wheat is quickly absorbed, and it seems a mystery into whose hands it falls. Exports were not very large, and cables were indifferent. The government report next Saturday will give the reserve in farmers' hands, and it is generally expected to be bullish, and, in view of this report, traders are keeping close to shore, but the tendency of the market seems upward, and unless this report is very bearish we will probably see higher prices.

Coarse grains have advanced nearly to per bushel from the lowest point. The principal cause is the cut in freight rates, they being some 6c cheaper than a week ago which insures a large movement east.

The feature of the meeting was the exhibition of the map of Fulton county which has been so long under way. The screen is said to be a splendid one, and at any rate the map is very handsome. A petition to permanently improve the Power Springs read, caused much discus-sion during which it was incidentally son, during which it was incidentally brought to light that a horse had recently mired in it and had died before he could be taken out. The commissioners agreed to fix the road at once.

In the matter of the Williams mill road it was decided that it should continue in its old place as far as the Inglett place, and there turn off at a right angle until it reaches the old road again. That portion of the road between the street car crossing and the point where the old road intersected, will be closed as formerly attempted. The work was ordered done as soon as practicable.

Councilman Peters was present and when requests for the grading of certain streets were handed in from the city council, he were handed in from the city council, he took occasion to make a few remarks upon the situation. He said that with the city it was a question of cut down one department for another; that either the paving department or the grading department had to be cut down; that since it seemed to be the policy of the county commissioners to pave all the roads leading into the city, that the city wanted to continue the paving inside the city limits. Therefore there should be a sort of reciprocity and the county should do the grading. It was referred to a committee.

DR. RIDLEY'S SPEECH.

It Was a Gem of Oratory and Has Elicited Much Commendation.

Many golden expressions have been provoked by the eloquent address of Dr. F. M. Ridley, of LaGrange, Ga., delivered before the graduating class of the Atlanta Medical college last Tuesday evening at the Grand. In addition to its purity of diction and the grace of its delivery, it was a speech of most unusual power in its play of thought as well as the general scheme of its conception. He characterized the present as "the golden age of medical discovery," and eulogized the contributions of Dr. Edward Jenner, Crawford W. Long and other distinguished men of science, to the renown of the profession. He assured the members of the class that whills success bad be if frequently attained, it was wreathed about a lofty pinnacle, and the way to reach it was not through a primrose path of dalliance. The true physician had need of the martyr's spirit in order to be equal to the test of his responsibility and his life should be one of consecration and of loyalty to his profession.

He paid a graceful and glowing tribute to Dr. Miller, the Nestor of the medical profession in Georgia, and the "Demosthenes of the Mountains" who had won an equal fame in the roles of statesmanship and oratory; whose stainless career was drawing to its close and whose mantle any young Elisha might do well to covet. He besought the members of the class to bend their bow at no unworthy object, but with lofty ideals in view, to exemplify all that was noble and grand in the profession.

After the speech was over Colonel N. J. Hammond, the chairman of the board of trustees, expressed his gratification in high

Hammond, the chairman of the board of trustees, expressed his gratification in high terms and assured the young orator that, having known his father, he was not surprised at the ability which he inherited. This public testimonial was endorsed by the large assembly in a hearty demonstration. Dr. Ridley has every reason to be proud of the victory which his oratory has evening will be an interesting one for those who are present.

By an agreement already made, the council, after the regular work of the evening is over, will convert itself into a body which by the resolution adopted will be called the United States senate. Then under the ruling of the president of the council, the Wilson bill will be taken up and discussed by the members of the council who will be addressed as senators. There are a number of good speakers in the Industrial Council, and some good talks may be expected by those who attend. In the membership are some of the best posted men in the city, too, and the evening all told will be a pleasant one.

Ed Venney, Brockville, Ontario, Canada, Ed Venney, Brockville, Ontario, Canada, says:

"I have used Brandreth's Pills for the past fifteen years, and think them the best cathartic and anti-bilious remedy known. For some five years I suffered with an eruption of the skin that gave me great pain and annoyance. I tried different blood remedies, but, although gaining strength the itching was unrelieved. I finally concluded to take a thorough course of Brandreth's Pills. I took six each night for four nights, then five, four, three, two, lessening each time by one, and then for one month took one every night, with the happy result that now my skin is perfectly clear and has been so ever since." 2,000 BABIES

THE LARGEST GROUP OF BA-THE LARGEST GROUP OF BABIES IN THE WORLD IS NOW BEING MADE BY C. W. MOTES,
THE PHOTOGRAPHER.
I propose to make the largest group of children under three years old ever made by photography to be exhibited at the Convention of Photographers of America at St. Louis, Mo., next July.

Only 50c will be Charged for Each Sitting In order to induce parents to aid me in this undertaking I make the following liberal offer: I will give to each of the first five hundred children one fine five hundred children one fine Cabinet Photograph or aristotype and a souvenir copy of group. In addition, ten elegant, finely finished enlargements will be given as premiums to the ten prettiest children, to be awarded by a committee of competent judges. Make engagements at once and let the fun commence, and urge your friends to do likewise. I am never happier than when making pictures of the little ones and will endeavor to secure the happiest results and make this the largest, best and most artistic work ever produced.

F. J. STILSON, Winter and Spring!

Face to tace-Winter and Spring? Its hard to tell which way the cat'll jump. Funny selling we're doing these days-some asking for light weights-some for the medium-others for the heavy. But you can't corner us. We're fixed for any call. A large portion of the Spring stock is in-yet they haven't pushed the winter weights in the back-ground-there're still in reach. We haven't stopped selling Ulsters-and we've begun on the light weight Overcoats. Isn't our store a convenience?—a store where you can buy just what you want-from the finest to the cheapest-where you're not obliged to get along with something else, but where you always obtain the very article desired-where the goods are always as represented—and at invariably the lowest price.

How about a Spring Hat-or a Scarf anyway? We're as ready for the boys as for you.

STREET CAR MEN

Who Are to Assemble in Atlanta Nex October Are Being Provided For.

A MAGNIFICENT BUILDING TO GO UP

In Which There Will Be a Great Big Auditorium and a Large Arcade with a Great Amount of Floor Space.

The annual session of the American Street Railway Association, which is to be held in Atlanta next October, is now attracting the attention of the street railway men of the country. President Joel Hurt, of the Atlanta Consolidated street railway, is receiving breat piles of mail every day asking about the coming convention and the indications are that the convention in Atlanta will be more generally attended than any convention the association has ever had. Many of the letters to Mr. Hurt, and the majority of them, too, for that matter, are from manufacturers of supplies used in street railroad and other railroad work. All of these are asking about space in the building for exhibits and the indications are that exhibition of supplies will be more thorough, more extensive and more complete than ever before.

Mr. Hurt realizes the fact that the convention will be a large one and has already had drawn plans for the building, which is to go up soon at Piedmont park. The building will cost a large sum of money and will be one of the most complete of the kind the association has ever seen. It will have a large auditorium with a seating capacity of nearly 25,000, in which the members of the association will hold their meetings and discuss the matters pertaining to the association. Just outside of the auditorium will be one of the largest and handsomest arcades or promenades in the south, which will accommodate large crowds. Then annexed will be the hall where the large and complete exhibition will take place. This hall will be the largest the association has ever seen and will be nearly 600 feet long by more than 100 feet, wide. It will have over 40,000 square feet of flooring. In the very center of the immense hall will be one of the largest Corliss engines ever brought south, which will be used as a power for the displays.

Around the main building will be constructed tracks for street cars on exhibition and the man who visits the building and the grounds will have an opportunity of seeing every line of street railway work and transportation known to the world. Mr. Hurt is now pushing the matter right along and will begin erecting the mammoth building within the next iew days.

The association is composed of the best and most energetic men in the country. Few people have any idea of the amount of money invested in street railroads in this country and the men who are handling them are among the most progressive and energetic the world knows.

FUNERAL OF MR. MCALLISTER.

It Occurred Yesterday Afternoon-The Interment Will Not Be Until May.

It was a pathetic scene enacted at the home of Mr. Charley McAllister, on Walker street, yesterday afternoon, when his friends gathered for the last time to view his pallid face and to pay their farewell respect to his moreover. espect to his memory.

All of his late associates were present

All of his late associates were present and from their tearful faces it was evident that grief had been at work. They recalled his sunny disposition and the many hours which they had spent in his companionship, which would never again be realized except in the tenderness of recollection.

The services were conducted by Rev. A. W. Knight, the rector of St. Phillip's particle of the scients and the first the scients manner of the Enjanger.

ish, after the solemn manner of the Epis-copal church, and as the tones of the rec-tor found eloquent lodgment in the ears of the friends gathered in the room, there were Lew dry eyes in the assembly.

"Asleep in Jesus" was tenderly sung by the sister of the deceased, whose voice was full of sadness as she sang and whose plaintive melody, as it swept the chords of every heart, caused many handkerchiefs to be lifted to the countenances of those who wept in tender sympathy.

The following gentlemen acted as pall-bearers: Messrs. W. C. Henderson, Louis Saloshin, Frank Turner, Claud Painter, Henry Saloshin and Phil Green. After the funeral services were concluded the remains were carried back to the undertaking sympathylicity.

They will remain at the undertaker's until next Saturday mroning, at which time they will be taken to New York, for the purpose of being interred at his old home in Buffalo. The burial will not occur, however, until May, as the ground is frozen and the casket will have to repose in the receiving vault until the ground has thawed.

HAS FILED AN ANSWER.

Chisolm Was No Tenant of His. In his answer to the suit for damages filed by Mr. Perry Chisolm, Mr. Jonathan Norcross says that Mr. Chisolm is not and never has been a tenant of his.
That he knew that a corner of the building was occupied by a soda fount or soda business, but he knew nothing of the party or parties in charge, and that if Mr. Chisolm rented from any one it must have been from Dr. Joe Jacobs.

He also answers that he did not know that the walls were unsafe, since they have stood for twenty-two years, their age being a guarantee that they were safe. Mr. Norcross attaches a demurrer which embodies portion of the answer. The answer was filed by Judge Hillyer.

COURT CULLINGS.

Judge Lumpkin disposed of several matrimonial disagreements yesterday by cutting the Gordian knot. Total divorce was granted in the instance of Lula Haralson against F. L. Haralson. Sallie Alexander secured a first verdict in her divorce suit secured a first verdict in her divorce suit against her husband, John T. Alexander. W. P. Anderson was given a first verdict against his wife, Mittle Anderson. Henry Harris was divorced from his wife, Laura Harris, by a second verdict. Arthur M. Gammage secured a total divorce from his wife, F. S. Gammage.

Several weeks ago Attorney Robert L. Johnson, a well-known young lawyer, was retained in the case of an intervention of Howell Cloud against Robert Lowry, receiver. An affidavit was tendered by the defense and to this affidavit Mr. Johnson objected, as it was not properly captioned. Judge Lumpkin has decided that Mr. Johnson was correct in his understanding of the law and says that the style of the suit must be first, as the party making the affidavit could not be found guilty of perjury if he swore falsely under such circumstances since he would have sworn in no judicial proceeding. Under this ruling there have been any number of invalid affidavits filed.

in the City.

In spite of the general depression which has everywhere existed, during the last few months, a number of improvements have taken place in the city.

Along the sweep of the nine-mile circle several attractive homes have been erected, and those who have not been in that locality since last summer will be surprised to observe the remarkable transformation which has taken place in so short an interval. in the City.

In the neighborhood of Ponce de Leon Springs a number of beautiful suburban homes have been erected.

A visit to the architects yesterday afternoon disclosed the fact that a number of homes will be erected in the city during the approaching spring. A lot of plans have already been drawn, while others are still under consideration.

As the warmer weather advances the places of interest on the outskirts of the city are beginning to assume a more inviting aspect and, with signs of renewed life ing aspect and, with signs of renewed life thus apparent, are beginning to assert their old popularity. There were a number of visitors at Grant park, Ponce de Leon Springs and other places of interest yesterday, afternoon. terday afterne

In the heart of the city, the building which was commenced a few months ago by Mr. Kiser, has been completed and is now occupied. It is one of the most substantial buildings in the city. The Silvey building has also been completed and is a structure of rare ornamentation.

The clearing away of the Norcross corner is moving steadily ahead.

From every point of view the prospect for ner is moving steadily ahead.

From every point of view the prospect for the year is good. With the exposition, as a lever and a stimulating influence, there is no telling the amount of progress which will be developed during the year.

Sam Cheek Ends His Double Life with Pistol Bullets.

HE WEARIED OF ITS EMPTINESS

When Discovery Was About to Come He Goes to His Wife and Tells Her of His Companion in Sin.

In an old tumble down cottage hidden in a lonely copsewood, Samuel H. Cheek, the contractor, a fugitive from the law and the tortured slave of conscience, yesterday morning put an end to his life, which for years has been a living lie, a double life, false to wife, to home, to honor, to chil-

Hidden there to escape prosecution on trivial charge, he was driven to remorse for an unsuspected crime that for years had remained undiscovered, and there alone, in the quiet of the woods, he shot himself through the heart.

An hour later he was found dying by his son. Two hours later he died at the Grady hospital.

His tragic death revealed a dramatic story, replete with deception, devotion, duplicity and love-a story that is like the product of some clever fictionist's brain. Ordinary matter of fact life, but rarely develops such instances of long practiced deception and double living.

The story unfolded by Cheek's suicide is one covering a period of twelve years, and between the first and last acts there is an interval of ten years. The tragedy ended with the killing of Cheek yesterday. Samuel H. Cheek was a contractor in fairly good circumstances and was about forty-two years old. He was a man of medium size, ruddy face, slight grayish mustache, shrewd looking eyes and a face that indicated the sharp trader. By nature he was good at driving a bargain, and through his gift in this direction and his thrift and economy he accumulated a competency for himself and family. He owned several houses and lots in the city and did a thriving business as a builder and con-

His home was at the corner of Garnett and South Pryor streets, a gloomy, twostory brick residence of old style architec ture. Here he lived when at home with his wife and four or five children.

Recently he has been in business Macon and has been at home but little. He came home Sunday for the first time in several days. He was called here by a case he had in court. Several months ago he had a negro arrested for stealing some building material from a house that he quired in court to testify in the case. Leaves Home Monday Night.

He left home Monday night under circumstances that aroused the suspicions of his wife. His going away was the beginning of the enu. He came back but once, and then but for a few short moments When he left the last time he told his wife that it was forever. She clung to him weeping, unwilling to believe that she was never to see him again. She did not even faintly suspect the terrible revelations that the next few hours were to bring her.

Unknown to Mrs. Cheek, and unknown to any one save Cheek and his paramour, the unfortunate man was haunted by years of cruel deception and this thing of which his wife did not dream was to drive him to destruction.

Twelve years ago Mr. Cheek and his wife lived at Suwanee, Ga., in happy circumstan-Cheek was making his way in the world, and was respected by the people of the community. One day, just like such things occur in books, the Richmond and Danville train brought to the little depot at Suwanee a pretty, plump-cheeked, golden-haired maiden of sixteen, whose face was marred by an expression of trouble.

To Station Master Rhodes the conductor on the train, which was coming toward the city, told the story of the young girl's history. She was an orphan and came from a small city in South Carolina and was in search of a home.

"Keep her until I return tomorrow, and find a home for her if you can," said the conductor. "If you can't, however, I will take her with me." Took the Orphan Home.

Chance, which plays such a great part in human affairs, had it that Mr. Samuel Cheek was at the depot that day. He saw the distressed orphan and learned her ste ry from her own lips. He was touched with sympathy and said to Mr. Rhodes, the station master, that he would take the girl to his home and care for her until a home could be found for her.

Mrs. Cheek is a kindly, warm-hearted, domestic woman of heroic mold, as yesterway's developments show, and she received the motherless girl with open arms. She made the girl, who gave her name as Bertha Cross, feel perfectly at home, and after a week the girl had brightened up wonderfully and seemed to have regained her lost hope.

Misfrotune overtook the Cheek family in the shape of a disastrous fire, which robbed them of their home, and Mrs. Cheek was forced to find a home elsewhere for Bertha Cross. She write to her sister, who lived twenty miles away, and told her of Miss Cross. The sister was very anxious to have her, and asked that Mrs. Cheek send her up at once. Mrs. Cheek was delighted at finding so good a home for her protege.

"I am glad you are going up there," Mrs Cheek said to her upon taking leave of her, "there are several families from South Carolina living there, and you'll get along splendidly, I know."

Miss Cross's face fell perceptibly and she asked for the names of the South Carolina families. One of them she happened to know. On the way to her new home, in company with Mr. Cheek, Miss Cross said: Those people know me-know all about me, and know all about my parents. My real name is not Bertha Cross, but Blanche Clayton. My father is still living, but he was so cruel to me that I was compelled to

Mr. Cheek was surprised, as was his wife, when he returned home the next day and repeated the story. Notwiths anding this Blanche Clayton continued to live in the family of Mrs. Cheek's sister for nearly a year; was a frequent visitor at the Cheek home during that time, and was righly re-

nd on the floor lay his father, breathing with difficulty.

Cheek lay outstretched, his revolver in his right hand. Blood had gathered on the floor under his side, having come from two wounds in his side. The young man ran to the dumping grounds from which place a telephone message was sent to the Grady hospital for the ambulance. The son returned to the place with several others and did everything possible to revive his father, who was unconscious and unable to recognize him.

While waiting for the ambulance, Blanche Clayton came up and at sight of the prostrate form, she fell upon it weeping, and kissing the dying man's face hysterically. Young Cheek touched her on the shoulder. "Get away from here," he said; "you've no hysterisk here." "I will go." she said. "Do not tell any one ve been here."

Cheek was carried to the hospital, where Cheek was carried to the hospital, where he died at twenty minutes before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He never regained consciousness nor spoke from the time he was found until the time of his death just before 2 o'clock. His body was removed to Swift's undertaking establishment, where, later in the afternoon, an inquest was held. The body will be carried to Suwanee some time today, and will be buried at Mt. Moriah burying ground. Mrs. Cheek is well-nigh prostrated with grief. She is a most estima-

to Suwanee, and after spending a few days got on the train to go home, as it was un-

The Ten Years Which Intervened. That day she went out of the life of Mrs. Cheek and was seen by her no more until day before yesterday, when she appeared in the most dramatic manner and under circumstances of a peculiarly strange na-

During the past ten years Mr. been angaged in business in Atlanta for a greater part of the time. He boarded here for several years before moving his family from his home at Sewanee to this place. He moved here about five or six years ago.

About six weeks ago, while Mr. Cheek was at Macon, Mrs. Cheek received a registered letter, addressed to Mrs. Blanche Cheek. It contained money sent from Macon, and in some way it aroused Mrs. Cheek's suspicions. She wrote a letter to her husband immediately and asked him about it. He came home in a day or two and explained the matter satisfactorily. He said that he sent the money for his business partner, a man named Williams. His story was a most plausible one and his wife believed it confidently, dismissing it from her mind. As previously stated, Cheek came to Atlanta Sunday to look after a case in court. Late Monday afternoon he returned home and told his wife that the case had been dismissed and that the negro had sworn out a warrant against him. The warrant charged him with the stealing of some lumber. He expected to be arrested at any time. He spent an hour looking for some receipts and went away. A few minutes after he left the bailiff came with a warrant and searched the premises thoroughly, looking for the lumber.

Mrs. Cheek Talks. The strange, excited actions of her husband had roused Mrs. Cheek to the height of anxiety and expectancy. She knew from his nervous manner that something more terrible than he had intimated to her was about to happen, yet she asked no question. Her devotion for him was complete: as she sobbed out her story of the terrible affair last night she frequently stopped to say that he "loved him dearer than all the world," although she was conscious at the time that he had been faithless to her.

"All night Monday night," said Mrs.
Cheek last night in telling her story, "I did not sleep—I could not. I lay across my bed for a few minutes, thinking, listening waiting. Late that night the bailiff came waiting. Late that night the bailing came back again and searched the house. Oh, it was awful—I had not seen my husband and did not know where he was.

"It was just about an hour before daylight yesterday morning that I heard a step at the door, and I knew my husband had come. I was up to meet him in a moment. He seemed extraordinarily wrought up. Margaret, he asked in a whisper, have they been here after me, I told him they had. He was shaking from some cause, and I knew that something was troubling him deeply.

him deeply.

"Suddenly he threw his arms around me.

"Margaret,' he said, 'I've lied to you and deceived you. That letter addressed to Blanche Cheek was intended for Blanche Clayton. For years she has been living here, bearing my name. I have supported her, sent her money, lived with her. She has two children. They are mine."

"Although it was too terrible for any-

"Although it was too terrible for anything, I knew it was so by his manner. 'Don't tell me this,' I begged him, catching him in my arms, 'don't break my heart entirely—don't take away the one happiness of my life.' He was crying, and pointed to the street. 'It is so,' he said, 'she is there—there in the street. She came with me here.'

me nere.
"I held to him and would not let him go;
yet I knew he must leave, for the officers would soon be after him again. He told me would soon be after him again. He told me that he was going away, far away, and might never come back any mare. 'With that woman?' I said. 'Oh, do not carry her with you.' He told me that he would not; that he would go alone. He broke away from me and I held him back. 'Oh, how can I bear this,' I said to him. 'How can I bear to see you go like this!' He hurried off and I have not seen him since.

Blanche Calls on the Wife.

Clayton came to the door with a note from him. It was a short one and he simply asked me to send him $10, his overcoat and some cartridges. I asked the woman in and told her that she was responsible for it all; that her treachery and deceit had ruined our home and parted me from my husband forever. I gave her the money, Mr. Cheek's overcoat and five or six cartridges. She told me that he was then at her cottage just west of Bellwood. Later he sent a note for my son to meet him there this morning, Wednesday."

Wednesday."

Before daylight yesterday morning Mr. Cheeck's seventeen-year-old son went to Miss Claton's cottage in the rear of Bellwood. His father was not there, having spent the night in the country for fear that officers would call for him during the night. He came to the place and met his son about 6 o'clock yesterday. He made an engagement to meet him again at 8 o'clock, and the young man returned to the city.

At 8 o'clock promptly the young man was on hand to meet his father, but Cheek, the eider, was not there. The son set off to find him, wandering through the woods surrounding the city dumping grounds. In his wanderings he entered an old deserted cottage that had been vacant for months, brought her.

It seems that for years Cheek has been living with Miss Clayton and she has been known as Mrs. Cheek. Years ago, before Cheek moved his wife to this city, his young son visited him here and spent a day or two with him at his boarding house. He was at that time boarding on Hill street and his landlady was known as Mrs. Boyd. The son said last night that Mrs. Boyd, the landlady, was none other than Miss Clayton. She had a young child at that time. The reason discovery has not come sconer was that Cheek was away from home a great deal and his wife thought nothing of a two or three weeks' absence. During all the years she was being deceived she did not even remotely suspect the truth.

It is said that serious charges have been brewing against Cheek and might have been brought forward if he had lived a few days longer.

The enemy, however, were not to be made to surrender so easily, but continued in fuji and uninterrupted occupancy of their several places of abode.

The next movement on the part of the the next movement on the part of the chief and his men was to make cases against the occupants of two of the houses—the one on Butler street and the other on the corner of Butler and Gilmer.

Immediate legal steps were taken against

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. M. Nolan, the oc-cupants of the two houses referred to, for the reason that these places were right in the midst of an otherwise good and respect-able residence part of the city. Mrs. Nolan's house is but a block and a half from police headquarters, and is a neat little two-story brick cottage of unique archi-tecture. The place of Mrs. Campbell is in the immediate neighborhood.

Mrs. Nolan comes of a highly respectable family, her connections being among the best people of Fayette county. She stout-ly declares her innocence of the charge pre-ferred against her and her two daughters, and declares that she will fight the case to the bitter end ferred against her and her two daughters, and declares that she will fight the case to the bitter end.

Only one of the houses was evacuated by order of the chief. On investigation, it developed that Anna Clarke, who kept her house on Butler street, had left for other and more congental surroundings.

The failure on the part of the occupants of the other houses on Jenkins street will be referred to the board of police commissioners for action.

Failed to Agree.

New Orleans, La., March 7.—The Whitaker case, which has occupied the time of the court about a month, from first to last, was given to the jury at 1 o'clock this morning. At 3 o'clock the jury came into court, reported that they could not agree and were discharged and a mistrial entered. The jury stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction. Whitaker was charged with embezzlement and having failed to pay into the city treasury all the fines collected by the first recorder's court over which he presided. Impeachment proceedings are pending against Judge Whitaker before the city council.

WALKS AND TALKS.

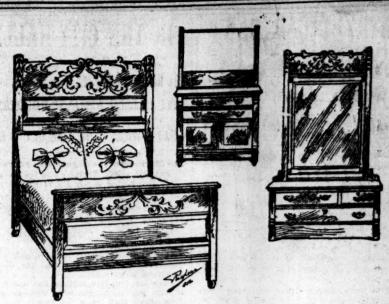

WALKS AND TALKS.

The domestic wine industry in Georgia offers great advantages to those who know anything about cultivating grapes, and utilizing the product of the vine. There is no section of the south which grows finer grapes than Georgia, and there are vast possibilities in the manufacture of domestic wines in the state. The industry has advanced greatly during the past few years, and domestic manufacture has now become quite a source of profit to a number of people in the state.

Mr. Charles B. Atkinson, of Madison, has demonstrated the possibility of such manufacture by domestic wines, made not only from grapes, but from mulberries, torreand other fruits and vegetables. The flavor of these wines, made by Mr. Atkinson, is delightful, and he has a ready demand for his product. This industry will yield him considerable revenue this year and his work demonstrates what can be done by those who are ready to take advantage of the little things which are overlooked by most farmers, who devote their attention to one crop.

GLIMPSES OF AMERICA is a work of merit, superior in its descriptive matter, and resplendent with 550 beautiful half-tone pictures produced by the ingenious processes of experimentation and invention. But art and illustration have been surpassed by the discovery of a process where by SCENERY IS PHOTOGRAPHED IN NATURAL COLORS, and examples of this discovery are used in GLIMPSES OF AMERICA. They are called Cameragraphs, because the camera does all the work of both printing and coloring; they are also designated as Heliotypes because no other light than the sun is available for their production, and require an exposure of six

All the Glories of Nature in their Embrace.

GLIMPSES OF AMERICA has been pronounced one of the most exquisite works that the press of the world has yet brought forth. But its beauty and worth is not restricted to the 550 superb illustrations that present all the marvelous scenery of our country with the vividness of actual observation, for its value is immensely increased by the remarkably graphic descriptions of the author, Mr. J. W. Buel, who, with a corps of three expert photographers, spent two years traveling in a special photographic car, visiting every section of the nation, collecting facts and making pictures of the scenic wonderlands of America. The cost of their trip was $50,000, as they traveled a distance of 25,000 miles by car, horse back, stage, boat and on foot, traversing every state and territory that lies between the two oceans, and between Mexico

GLIMPSES OF AMERICA has no footn ote explanations of the illustrations, but contains an historical and descriptive narrative, diversified with stories, legends, adventures and thrilling episodes that make the work more interesting than any novel,

IN THE CITY HALL.

The Resignation of Mr. Venable Discussed and a Number Wanted It Withdrawn.

WHAT WILL, THE RESULT BE P

The Members of the Council Have Signed Petition to Mr. Venable and He Does Not Know What He Will Do.

The announcement in The Constitution yesterday morning that Hon. W. H. Venable was going to resign from the board of police commissioners created quite a stir throughout the city yesterday.

About the city hall it was the only thing discussed during the day and the discussion took a wide field.

Than Mr. Venable Atlanta has never had a more popular citizen or a more satisfac-tory officer, and when the people who are thrown daily in contact with him heard of his resignation now pending they showed their interest in the gentleman and their love for him by discussing the matter. Almost to a man the resignation was re-gretted, but at the same time there were those who, knowing the great pull on time the position takes, appreciated the motive of the gentleman in his determination to re-tire from the chair.

No greater evidence of the confidence the people have in Mr. Venable could have been manifested than was shown in the efforts of his friends and admirers to prevent him from pulling out of the body. Throughout the day his telephone was ringing, and nearly every time the other end of the wire developed a friend or admirer, who urged the gentleman to withdraw his resignation and remain a member of the board. Besides the telephone calls quite a number of the gentleman's friends called upon him personally, requesting him to re-consider his determination to withdraw from the board. To these appeals Mr.

Venable was pleasant but non-committal.

But the greatest care presented Mr. Venable was a paper signed by the members of the general council and some of the members of the board of police commissioners. This paper asked the gentleman to take back the letter he had written and not send it to the council, but the letter speaks for itself. Here it is:
"Atlanta, Ga., March 6, 1894.—Hon. W.

H. Venable, Atlanta, Ga. Dear Sir: The undersigned aldermen and council of the city of Atlanta, learning that you have written your resignation as a police commissioner, most respectfully request that you recall the same and continue in the office to the expiration of your term. We cheerfully bear testimony to your ability and zeal in the discharge of the duties of the office of police commissioner, and sincerely urge that you favorably consider this, our éarnest request. Respectfully yours, H. C. Stockdell, P. H. Harralson, Joseph Hirsch, W. R. Dimmock, J. M. Stephens, M. P. Camp, J. W. Nelms, D. A. Beatie, Arnold Broyles, Albert Howell, John Colvin, Edward C. Peters, W. W. Boyd, W. J. Campbell, J. H. Welch, Zack Martin.

added his name to the list with an urgent request that the resignation be withdrawn. Then Captain English, chairman of the board, and Dr. R. D. Spalding, who has been one of the most faithful members of the board, and Mr. J. C. A. Branan and Mr. George Johnson, the members-elect, joined the letter in a paragraph asking Mr.

Venable not to resign.

All of this was complimentary to the commissioner and was highly appreciated by him. But whether or not it changed his mind no one can tell, as Mr. Venable is not of that communicative turn which allows others to know what he is thinking about. If asked about the matter, even by his closest friends, he would invariably assert that he had not made up his mind about it. He gave no one any idea of what he will do, and that may be due to the fact that he does not know just what he will do in the matter.

Mr. Venable's friends all know that pleasant smile indicative of nothing he wears when he don't want to inform the world of his intentions. That was the same smile he had yesterday when he was asked what he would do about the resignation, and beyond that smile all he would give any one was the plain declaration that time would show. A friend of the commissioner. however, and one who is pretty close to him, talked about the matter some and

"I happen to know that Mr. Venable has more demands upon his time than he can accommodate and that he is, and has been accommodate and that he is, and has been anxious for a long time to get out of the police board. He knows that that department of the city government is in safe hands and that his presence is not demanded. If he thought for a minute that the council which elected him to the place would suffer by his retirement. would suffer by his retirement he would not think of leaving R. But he knows that the same good plan which was in play when he entered the board, in fact which has always been in play since Captain Eng-lish went in, still prevails. Then why should he remain? He appreciates the esteem shown him in the numerous demands which have been made by the people, both private and public, for him to remain in the board. He knows that the demands are been not He knows that the demands are based not only on the love the people have for him, but on the idea and knowledge that he has done good work for the city since he bas friends he does not say what he will do. His resignation has been written and it been on the board. Still even to his clos may go to the general council and it may be recalled. His best friends don't know just what course it will take.
